This is a digital copy of a book that was preserved for generations on library shelves before it was carefully scanned by Google as part of a project to make the world's books discoverable online.

It has survived long enough for the copyright to expire and the book to enter the public domain. A public domain book is one that was never subject to copyright or whose legal copyright term has expired. Whether a book is in the public domain may vary country to country. Public domain books are our gateways to the past, representing a wealth of history, culture and knowledge that's often difficult to discover.

Marks, notations and other marginalia present in the original volume will appear in this file - a reminder of this book's long journey from the publisher to a library and finally to you.

Usage guidelines

Google is proud to partner with libraries to digitize public domain materials and make them widely accessible. Public domain books belong to the public and we are merely their custodians. Nevertheless, this work is expensive, so in order to keep providing this resource, we have taken steps to prevent abuse by commercial parties, including placing technical restrictions on automated querying.

We also ask that you:

+ Make non-commercial use of the files We designed Google Book Search for use by individuals, and we request that you use these files for personal, non-commercial purposes.

+ Refrain from automated querying Do not send automated queries of any sort to Google's system: If you are conducting research on machine translation, optical character recognition or other areas where access to a large amount of text is helpful, please contact us. We encourage the use of public domain materials for these purposes and may be able to help.

+ Maintain attribution The Google "watermark" you see on each file is essential for informing people about this project and helping them find additional materials through Google Book Search. Please do not remove it.

+ Keep it legal Whatever your use, remember that you are responsible for ensuring that what you are doing is legal. Do not assume that just because we believe a book is in the public domain for users in the United States, that the work is also in the public domain for users in other countries. Whether a book is still in copyright varies from country to country, and we can't offer guidance on whether any specific use of any specific book is allowed. Please do not assume that a book's appearance in Google Book Search means it can be used in any manner anywhere in the world. Copyright infringement liability can be quite severe.

About Google Book Search

Google's mission is to organize the world's information and to make it universally accessible and useful. Google Book Search helps readers discover the world's books while helping authors and publishers reach new audiences. NOTICE

To Librarians, Library Committees, and Bookbuyers.

To better accommodate the distant buyers to whom we mail Catalogues, and for parties unable to be present, the Auctioneers will execute ALL ORDERS FREE OF CHARGE. In ordering from our catalogues give the NUMBER OF THE LOT, as well as the FIRST WORD OF TITLE, and extreme limit PER VOLUME, or (if engravings or pamphlets), PER PIECE, which will be used only in competition, or exactly as the purchaser would bid for himself. If unlimited orders are given, a proper discretion will be exercised.

Our catalogues are compiled by experts, who endeavor to give buyers, as far as practicable, a fair idea of the condition of every lot offered for sale. We, however, neither guarantee the absolute correctness of any description, nor the perfect condition of any lot.

It should be understood that each lot is sold separately, and by itself, as catalogued, and without reference to any other lot. Orders to purchase sent to us should, therefore, be for each lot on its own merits.

PURCHASES SENT DIRECT TO THE AUCTIONEERS ARE ALWAYS MADE AS MUCH BELOW THE AMOUNT NAMED IN THE ORDER AS CIRCUMSTANCES WARRANT.

Few bookbuyers, comparatively, are aware of the many advantages of attending our sales, and of the facility with which a good library may be completed. Often at these sales, libraries, which have been selected by persons of judgment, are distributed to all parts of the United States. This enables buyers to profit by the experience of others, and at the same time to make selections of choice editions and valuable books, often at much less price than they could be procured from other sources.

Catalogues mailed gratis, on application.

GEO. A. LEAVITT & CO.,

CLINTON HALL, ASTOR PLACE, NEW YORK.

Please execute for me the following bids at the auction sale of the Murphy Library, Monday, March 3d, and the following days.

Name . . . . . .

Address . . . . . .

Bids are always so much PER VOLUME.

NO.	BID.	REMARKS.	NO.	BID.	REMARKS.

CONDITIONS OF SALE.

1. The highest Bidder to be the Buyer; and, if any dispute arises between two or more Bidders, the Lot so in dispute shall be immediately put up again and resold.

2. The Purchasers to give their names and addresses, and to pay down twenty-five per cent. on the dollar in part payment, or the whole of the Purchase money if required; in default of which the Lot or Lots so purchased to be immediately put up again and re-sold.

3. The Lots to be taken away at the Buyer's Expense and Risk within three days from the conclusion of the Sale, and the remainder of the Purchase-money to be absolutely paid, or otherwise settled for to the satisfaction of the Vendors, on or before delivery; in default of which Messrs. GEO. A. LEAVITT & CO. will not hold themselves responsible, if the Lots be lost, stolen, damaged or destroyed, but they will be left at the sole risk of the Purchaser.

4. The sale of any Book, Painting, Engraving, Print, Furniture, Works of Art, or any other article, is not to be set aside on account of any error in the description. All articles are exposed for Public Exhibition one or more days, and are sold just as they are without recourse.

5. To prevent inaccuracy in delivery and inconvenience in the settlement of the Purchases, no Lot can, on any account, be removed during the sale.

6. Upon failure of complying with the above conditions, the money deposited in part payment shall be forfeited; all Lots uncleared within the time aforesaid shall be re-sold by Public or Private Sale, and the deficiency (if any) attending such re-sale shall be made good by the Defaulter at this sale, together with all charges attending the same. This Condition is without prejudice to the right of the Auctioneers to enforce the contract made at this sale, without such re-sale if they think fit.

THE LATE

HON. HENRY C. MURPHY,

AND

HIS LIBRARY.

Mr. Murphy was born in Brooklyn, Long Island, July 5, 1810, and died there December 1, 1882. His paternal grandfather, a physician, settled in the State of New Jersey. He was a member of the Colonial Council, the representative in the Assembly of the province, and a soldier of the American Revolution. The son of this patriot, Mr. Murphy's father, settled in Brooklyn, of which city he was a Judge of the Municipal Court. But his memory is most endeared to the citizens of Brooklyn by the fact of his having been one of the promoters of their first public school in 1816.

His eldest son, the late Henry C. Murphy, graduated from Columbia College with honors when he was twenty years old, and was admitted to the bar in 1833. The year following he was made Assistant Corporation Counsel of Brooklyn. A little later he became City Attorney, and still later Counsel to the Corporation of the newly evolved "city" of Brooklyn.

When thirty-two years old he was elected Mayor of the city of Brooklyn on the Democratic ticket. In 1843 he was chosen a Member of the Twenty-eighth Congress of the United States. He was, however, defeated for a second Congressional term, and his labors temporarily ended in the House of Representatives on March 4, 1845. But he was re-elected in 1846 to Congress "by the largest vote ever previously polled in his district."

In 1852 Mr. Murphy nearly became the Democratic candidate for the Presidency of the United States, when the Virginia delegation, at the Baltimore Convention, considered him and Franklin Pierce as the best men available for the highest office in the gift of the American people.

President Buchanan, as a reward for his zealous services to his party, and as a recognition of his abilities, appointed him United States Minister to Holland. He remained at the Hague until the coming into office of President Lincoln, who recalled him.

Mr. Murphy was elected in 1861, and five times successively afterward, to the New York State Senate. He was a State Senator for twelve consecutive years. It was under his auspices, as President of the East River Bridge Company, that the greatest triumph of modern engineering genius, the New York and Brooklyn Bridge, was begun and completed. He was also the President of the Brooklyn, Flatbush and Coney Island Railroad, until his death.

Mr. Murphy's highest claim to recognition is not as a statesman, but as a littèrateur and bibliophile. He was a journalist and author of repute. When in his twenty-second year, he was the principal editorial writer of the "Brooklyn Advocate and Nassau Gazette." For many years he was one of the leading contributors to the "North American Review," as well as the "Democratic Review." He was the founder and proprietor of the "Brooklyn Daily Eagle and Kings County Democrat," in October, 1841. While United States Minister at the Hague, he wrote a series of some thirty-five letters to that newspaper, which were extensively copied. His contributions to the "Historical Magazine" were continuous, and attracted much attention.

He was no selfish lover of literature for his own sake. It seemed to be his greatest desire to benefit others as well as himself. Thus, while a young man, he was the principal founder of the "Young Men's Literary Association of Brooklyn," and when it changed its name to the "Hamilton Literary Association of Brooklyn," he was elected its first President. In 1839 Mr. Murphy was a trustee, and one of the organizers of the "Brooklyn City Libray," and a year later was also a trustee of the "Brooklyn Apprentices' Library," upon its reorganization. In 1863 he was one of the initial founders of the "Long Island Historical Society."

Among his personal literary labors should be named his edition and translation of De Vries's "Voyage from Holland to America, 1632-1644;" "Broad Advice to the New Netherlands," which he attributed to Cornelius Melyn; his "First Minister of the Dutch Reformed Church in the United States," dated at the Hague, April 1, 1858; his seventy-two page work, published 1859, entitled "Henry Hudson in Holland;" his edition for the Long Island Historical Society of Dankers and Sluyter's "Journal of a Voyage to New York and a Tour in Several of the American Colonies in 1679-80;" and his memoir of the bibliophile Herman Ernst Ludewig for the New England Memorial Biographies.

Mr. Murphy's two most important works were "The Anthology of the New Netherlands," of which only 208 pages were printed for the Bradford Club, and his monograph entitled "The Voyage of Verrazano."

The best life of Mr. Murphy yet written is from the pen of his friend, the well-known author, Dr. Henry R. Stiles. It consists of a paper read before the New York Genealogical and Biographical Society, and which takes some twenty-four pages of the January (1883) number of the valuable quarterly "Record" of that Society.

It is well to state further and more particularly that in general geography, voyages and travels, which were Mr. Murphy's specialties, the library is unusually large, and comprises the collections of DeBry, Ramusio, Hakluyt, Purchas, Grynæus, Thèvenot, Commelin, Abelyn, and Ternaux-Compans.

Of the early editions of Ptolemy's "Cosmographia," the collection is not surpassed in the United States. It comprises no less than twent-six editions of the famous geographer, printed between the years 1462 and 1600. Besides these are the works of other noted geographers, as Strabo, Pomponius Mela, Abulfeda, Edrisi, Apian, Ortelius, Mercator, Wytfliet and Munster. The more recent geographers are also fully represented.

NEW FRANCE and CANADA are conspicuous. Among works on this widely extended region are the "JESUIT RELATIONS," in forty-two volumes, probably the most complete set of these valuable books ever offered for sale either in Europe or America. In the same department will be found the writings of SAGARD, LESCARBOT, CHAMPLAIN, LECLERCQ, CHARLEVOIX, HENNEPIN, LAHONTAN, BRESSANI, ST. DENIS, WHITBOURNE, BIARD and MARGRY; also the Mercure Française, in 24 volumes.

NEW NETHERLAND, embracing portions of New York and New Jersey, is probably the most complete of any department. Mr. Murphy was learned in the Dutch language and literature, and no book or pamphlet that related directly or indirectly to the Dutch and Swedish settlements in North America is known that is not to be found in the collection.

Among the works relating to New York are the writings of VAN DER DONCK, DE VRIES, the HUDSON TRACTS by GERRITZ, editions of 1612 and 1613, and DENTON. On NEW JERSEY are the works of CAMPANIUS, ACRELIUS, THOMAS, THOMPSON, SMITH.

NEW ENGLAND is represented in the works of the MATHERS, ELIOT, COTTON, MORTON, HIGGINSON, LEDERER, BISHOPE, HUBBARD, MOURT, SHEPARD, CODDINGTON, ROGER WILLIAMS, WINSLOW, WOOD, WHITFIELD, and VAUGHAN.

PENNSYLVANIA, MARYLAND, VIRGINIA, the CAROLINAS, FLORIDA and LOUISIANA are also represented by the most desirable books.

Upon the Indian languages, the works are very numerous, and include Dictionaries, Vocabularies, Grammars, unpublished manuscripts, and both editions of Eliot's Indian Bible and New Testament.

Among the early Spanish and Dutch writers are the "Letters of Cortes," the original edition of 1552, and the works of PETER MARTYR, LAS CASAS, ACOSTA, BENZONI, CIECA, GOMARA, HERRERA, ENCISO, LINSCHOTEN, DELAET, OVIEDO, THEVET, SOTO, VEGA, ZARATE, VAN DER DONCK, DE VRIES, WASSENAER, 24 vols., 4to., and USSELINCX.

Of USSELINCX there are twelve different works, relating to NEW NETHERLAND, NEW SWEDEN, and the operations of the DUTCH WEST INDIA COMPANY. So complete a collection of the works of this writer does not exist in any library in the United States. See numbers 2553 to 2563*.

Among the miscellaneous books are the Archæologia, or Miscellaneous Tracts, relating to Antiquity, published by the Antiquarian Society of London, forty-two vols.; The British Poets, Riverside Edition, 135 vols., crown octavo, large paper; BOTTA and FLANDIN'S Monumens de Ninève, printed at the National Printing Office, Paris, five vols., atlas folio; LAYARD'S Nineveh, two vols., atlas folio; Chinese Repository, complete, twenty vols., octavo; the Harleian Miscellany, edited by T. PARK, ten vols., quarto; JACOB BEHMEN'S Works, 5 vols., 4to.; the Nuremberg Chronicle, fol., 1493; CHOISEUL-GOUFFIER'S Voyage Pittoresque de la Grece, 3 vols., fol., 1782–1822; and FABER'S Origin of Pagan Idolatry, 3 vols., 4to.

Early Laws of the Colonies of NEW YORK, NEW JERSEY, PENNSYLVANIA and CONNECTICUT.

LORD KINGSBOROUGH'S Antiquities of Mexico, 9 vols., folio. A COLORED COPY. Transactions and Collections of the Historical Societies of NEW YORK, NEW JERSEY, PENNSYLVANIA, MASSACHUSETTS, and of the Literary and Historical Society of QUEBEC.

BIBLIOGRAPHY. The works of PINELO, ANTONIO, BRUNET, RICH, TERNAUX, ASHER, KENNETT, DE BURE, MULLER, HARRISSE, the Bibliotheca Grenvilliana, 4 vols., Bib. Spenceriana, 5 vols., Bib. Sussexiana, and the Catalogue of the Carter-Brown Library in Providence, in 4 vols., imp. 8vo.

LEXICOGRAPHY AND PHILOLOGY. The Collections of Dictionaries in various European languages is large. Among these are the late publications on the old Basque languages of the Pyrennes, now attracting great attention.

Last, but not least of the rarities in the collection, are copies of the "Columbus Letter," Rome, 1493; "Cosmographiæ Introductio St. Dié, 1507; "Pœsi Novamente," Milan, 1508; D'AILLY'S "Imago Mundi," Paris, 1490; the VERARDUS-COLUMBUS, printed at Basle in 1494: VARTHEMA'S Itinerario, Venice, 1526, containing GRIJALVA'S Account of Yucatan, in 1518; CAMERS-SOLINUS, of 1522, with the very rare map, the earliest engraved map that bears the name of America; STOBNICZA'S Commentry on Ptolemy's COSMOGRAPHIA CRACOW, 1512, excessively rare, containing a map of America before it had received its name; and SIR HUMPHREY GILBERT'S "Discovery for a New Passage to Cathay," London, 1576; the Itinerarium Portugallensium, Milan, 1508; JOHNSON'S Wonder-Working Providence London, 1654; FOX'S North West Fox, London, 1635; BESTE'S True Discourse of the voyages and discoverie of a Passage to Cathaye, by FROBISHER, London, 1578; CABECA DE VACA'S Relaciony Comentarios, Valladolid, 1555, 4to.; FRAMPTON'S Joyful Newes out of the New-Found World, London, 1580; GORGES' America Painted to the Life, London, 1658; GARDYNER'S Description of the New World, London, 1651; JONSSINE'S Gronlandia, printed at Skalholte, Iceland, 1688; LAUDONNIERE'S Histoire Notable de la Floride, Paris, 1586; the American Remembrancer, 1764–1784, 16 vols.; JEFFERSON'S Notes on Virginia, the original privately printed edition, printed in Paris in 1782, for presents only; HORSMANDEN'S Journal of Proceedings in relation to the Negro Conspiracy for burning the city of New York; New York, 1744; TEXIER AND PULLAN'S Byzantide Architecture, folio; STRABO'S Geography, Venice, 1472, folio; ROMANS' Florida, the editions of 1775 and 1776.

The last of the gems in the collection to which attention should be called are the original autograph letters of the "Signers of the Declaration of Independence," all remarkably fine specimens.

Such is the Library which Mr. Murphy, one of the most ardent bibliophiles of this country and century, collected.

De concordia discordantium astronomorum, p. 145.

Although this book was printed before the discovery of America, it possesses, nevertheless, an interest from its connection with Columbus. It is known to have been a favorite of the great navigator, by whom it was much studied, and, by many, it is supposed that he found in it the opinions which suggested to him the feasibility of a western passage to India.

D'Ailly, (or de Aliaco, his Latinized name,) Archbishop of Cambray and Cardinal, was born in 1340, and died, according to some writers, in 1416, by by others in 1425. He was the author of many works, and one of the most learned men of his day. Las Casas is of opinion that his writings had more effect in stimulating Columbus to his enterprise than those of any other author. His work was so familiar to the great navigator, that he filled its whole margin with Latin notes in his own handwriting, citing many things that he had read elsewhere. "This book, which was very old," writes Las Casas, "I had many times in my hands, and I drew from it some things written in Latin by the said Admiral Christopher Columbus, to verify certain points appertaining to his history, of which I before was in doubt."—Hist. de las Indies, lib. 1, cap. II.

Washington Irving also saw and handled the precious volume, which was the copy possessed by Columbus, and which is now preserved in the Columbina Library at Seville. "It was a great satisfaction," he writes, "to discover this identical volume. It is a most curious and interesting document, the only one that remains of Columbus prior to his discovery. It illustrates his researches, and in a manner the current of his thoughts, while as yet his great enterprise existed but in idea, and while he was seeking means to convince the world of its practicability."—Life of Columbus, Vol. II., pp. 11, 12, note, N. Y. ed., 1848.

Mr. Major, in speaking of winds and currents, facts concerning which he had gathered from seamen, says: "While availing himself of these sources of information, Columbus studied with deep and careful attention the works of such geographical authors as supplied suggestions of the feasibility of a short western passage to India. Amongst these the Imago Mundi of Cardinal Pierre d'Ailly was a favorite."—Life of Prince Henry, the Navigator.

(Colophon) Excusum Viennæ Austriæ, 1514

On the right of the 18th leaf is a marginal note by the editor, of which the following is a translation:

"Behold! he concludes that beyond the ecliptic, in the 50th degree, that region which Vespucius in his voyages in former years discovered and described, was habitable."

Albertus Magnus, of a Suabian family, became Bishop of Ratisbon. He died in 1280, and was considered the most learned man of his time. His book appears to have been published from the original MS. (see note at the end of the table). It is a treatise on Cosmography. His views on the habitableness of the earth beyond the tropics as expressed in the place cited had reference to the then undiscovered parts of Africa.

Humboldt, in speaking of the work, says: "Dans l'édition de Strasbourg, dont je me sers, et qui a paru trois ans après la mort d'Amerigo Vespucci, l'éditeur, George Tanstetter est si émerveillé des conjectures d'Albert le Grand sur les terres de l'hémisphère austral, habité jusq'au 50 degré de latitude, qu'il y reconnait une prophétie accomplie par la navigation d'Amerigo Vespucci."—Examen Critique, Vol. I. p. 121.

7 vols. folio, half russia, Washington, 1833

This great work is the most important and valuable relating to American History of any published by the government, as it will embrace its complete documentary history from its discovery by Columbus to the year 1783. Its publication, which was suspended before the late war, is about to be resumed, a resolution having been passed at the last session of Congress for continuing the work. The series, as far as published, is now difficult to procure.

On page 2 is a globe with the word "AMERI" on an island; revolving diagrams on pages 17, 24, and 63, and in the appendix. On page 69, the fourth chapter thus begins:—

"America: quae nunc Quarta pars terrae dicitur, ab Americo Vespucio eiusdē inuētore nomen sortita est. Et non immerito: quoniam mari vndique clauditur Insula appellatur."

America, which is now called the fourth part of the world, justly took its name from Americus Vespucius, who discovered it; and it is called an island for the reason that it is surrounded by water.

127 AUGUSTINUS. De Veræ Vitæ Cognitione.
Red initial letters, 4to. dark mor. gilt edges, by Mackenzie, without place or date, but printed in the office of Faust and Schoeffer. A fine copy of an exceeding rare book.

"This appears to be the earliest impression extant, separately executed of the work. The type is of the founts of letter used by the above printers, and similar to that of the Durandus and the Offices of Cicero. The recto of the first leaf is blank. The table begins on the reverse and ends on the verso of the second leaf. On the recto of the third leaf we read at top, Incipit phemiã libelli.

"The proheme occupies 2 pages; and the entire work comprises xliii. chapters, or 34 leaves; 28 lines to a page. On the recto of the 34th and last leaf we read the concluding line thus: Augustini de vere vite cognicoe libellus explic.

"The device of Faust and Schoeffer (the shields printed in red) is beneath." —Dibdin's Spenceriana, vol. iv., p. 446.

sm. 8vo. cloth, uncut, Paris, 1853

The original edition of this work is excessively rare. The last copy sold in New York brought $250. Of this reprint, only 100 copies were printed. It is consequently a scarce book.

191 BAY PSALM BOOK. A Literal Reprint of the Bay Psalm Book, the earliest New England version of the Psalms, and the first book printed in the United States.

Cambridge, for C. B. Richardson, 1862

The VVhole Booke of Psalmes faithfully translated into English Metre. Whereunto is prefixed a discourse not only the lawfullnes, but also the necessity of the heavenly Ordinance of singing Scripture Psalmes in the Churches of God. Imprinted 1640. 8vo. full dark mor. super extra, top edge gilt, Cambridge, 1862

The original edition was printed at Cambridge, Massachusetts, in 1640, but six perfect copies of which are known. The most recent sale of a copy was that in the collection of the late C. Fiske Harris, of Providence, which was sold for $1,500. Of the reprint but fifty copies were printed for subscribers. It is, consequently, a scarce book. A copy in the Brinley sale in 1878 brought $37.00.

206 BEHN, MRS. A.: The Widdow Ranter, or, the History of Bacon in Virginia. A Tragi-Comedy, acted by their Majesties Servants. 4*to. calf, gilt edges*, London, 1690

This work throws much light on the internal condition of Virginia and other colonies which provoked the outbreak known as "Bacon's Rebellion."

Aphra Behn, who died in 1689, was the daughter of Mr. Johnston, Governor of Surinam. She wrote a number of poems, seventeen plays, and several histories and novels. Among the latter was one entitled "Oronokoo, the American Prince," from which Southerne borrowed his Tragedy called "Oronoko," the fruit of Mrs. Behn's personal acquaintance with that noted personage. The licentiousness of Mrs. Behn's pen is a disgrace to her sex.—Allibone.

"The owner of, we believe, the only copy in this country of the original edition of this Relation, has obligingly loaned it to me. In order to enable collectors who possess some of the Jesuit Relations to place at least beside these an exact reprint of this extremely rare volume, I have undertaken a small edition, reproducing the original page for page, line for line.

"The edition in the Collected Relations, published at Quebec, was printed from a transcript made from the only other known copy in the National Library at Paris. This transcript was to all appearances hastily and carelessly executed. The consequence is, that the Quebec edition abounds, as a minute collation proves, with grave errors of omission and alteration.

"The present reprint will be limited to twenty-five copies, and will be supplied, in sheets, to subscribers at $25 a copy."—E. B. O'Callaghan.

This very rare tract contains the early history of the Swedish Church in Pennsylvania, New Jersey, etc. The father of the author was sent to New Sweden in 1697, where his son was born. The historical details and notices of the Indians are of interest. The poetical dedication is in English, as well as a complimentary letter of three pages from Andrew Nesselius to the "Learned American." The map contains portions of Pennsylvania, Maryland, Delaware and New Jersey. The tract seems to have escaped the notice of Rich, Stevens and Sabin.

4*to. half green mor. gilt top, uncut, Madrid, Zuñiga*, 1746

Written during an eight years' residence in Mexico, and as the result of a considerable acquaintance with the manners and customs of the Indians; ancient manuscripts and pictures preserved in the Monasteries, etc. "It contains much important information not before published. The Catalogue occupies 96 pp. separately numbered, at the end of the book, and is not found in all copies. There has been no worthier workman in the field of Mexican Antiquities than Boturini; even Lord Kingsborough's name can scarcely be placed so high. Without the indefatigable and wisely-directed researches of the Hispano-Italian, a great portion of the native contributions to Mexican history would certainly have perished. Yet, instead of loading him with rewards, the Spanish Government robbed him of his MSS. under pretence that his intimacy with the Indians covered disloyalty."

It is now a well established fact that William Smith, Chief Justice of New York, was the author of this work. The compiler of this Catalogue, many years since, saw in the collection of the Hon. Peter Force, Washington, a letter from Mr. Smith to Sir William Johnson, Bart., from which is the following extract:

"Mr. Croghan set out the day before I expected he would, else I proposed sending for a copy of Bouquet's Expedition to Muskinghum, which I drew up from some papers he favored me with, and which is reprinted in England, and has had a very favorable reception."

The first edition of this work was published in two volumes in 1807. Another edition, but abridged, appeared in 1840.

In a note in the Memoirs of the Historical Society of Pennsylvania, (Vol. 6, p. 147,) it is stated that "Chief Justice Gibson said that Brackenridge emulated not without success the originality and purity of Swift; and Dr. Cannahan, President of Princeton College, speaks of his work as a book second in genuine humour only to its great prototype, Don Quixote de la Mancha. These gentlemen were well acquainted with Western Pennsylvania, and their estimation of Modern Chivalry gives it a high value among the works to be examined on the subject of the (Whiskey) Insurrection."

The Ship of Fools, by Sebastian Brant, is a German satire upon the follies of all ranks. The author was a man of great learning, and his work, for the most part, is a tissue of citations from ancient poets and historians.

The work has a place among Americana on account of certain references in it to the New World. In Barclay's English translation, (ed. of 1570) are two verses referring to America See the chapter beginning on the reverse of leaf 129, entitled, "Of the foolishe description and inquisition of divers countries and regions."

This volume relates to a grand fete that took place at Rouen, France, in the year 1550, when fifty Indians from Brazil exhibited their war dances and combats on the banks of the Seine before Catherine de Médicis.

341 BREEDEN-RAEDT Aende Vereenichde Nederlandsche Provintien. Gelreland. Holland. Zeeland. Utrecht. Vriesland. Over-Yssel, Groeninghen. BLACK LETTER. sm. 4to. half mor. very rare, Antwerp, Francoys van Duynen, 1649

The "Breeden-Raedt," literally Broad Advice, is a technical term, meaning the Ship's Council of Officers and others constituted on board ship to advise in case of danger or other emergency. The author of this book has adopted the form of a dialogue of such a council to show the misconduct of the Dutch West India Company, especially in New Netherland, and for that purpose introduces as interlocutors ten persons, consisting of a Portuguese soldier in the service of the Company, the captain of the ship, a Swedish student, a Spanish barber, a French merchant, a Neapolitan, a German gentleman, a poor English nobleman, a boatswain, and a Polander. With these men as spokesmen the agents and officers of the Dutch West India Company, in Brazil and in New Netherland, are arraigned, particularly the directors Kieft and Stuyvesant. In fact, the pamphlet appears to have been got up by Cornelis Melyn, the patroon of Staten Island, who had been tried for treason and condemned to an exile of seven years, by Stuyvesant upon the complaint of Kieft.

The tract is very rare, the last one known to us which came from Holland several years since cost $100. Since then the price of rare Americana has greatly increased.

"Father Bressani, a Roman by birth," says Charlevoix, "was one of the most illustrious missionaries of Canada, where he suffered a severe captivity and unheard of torments. He speaks little of himself in his History, which is well written; but is confined mainly to the Huron Mission, in which he labored with much zeal as long as it subsisted. After the almost complete extermination of that nation, and the scattering of what was left, he returned to Italy, where he preached till his death, with the more fruit, inasmuch as he bore on his mutilated hands glorious marks of his apostolate among the heathen.—Hist. of New France, Dr. Shea's Trans., Vol. 1, p. 80.

370 BROTHERHEAD, W. The Centennial Book of the Signers: Being Fac-simile Letters of each SIGNER OF THE DECLARATION OF INDEPENDENCE. Illustrated with 100 Engravings of Portraits, Views, etc., including 13 original designs, colored by hand.

imperial folio, thick paper, limited edition, Philadelphia, 1876

The most valuable portions of this volume are ORIGINAL AUTOGRAPH LETTERS of the Signers of the Declaration of Independence, which have been added. Nearly all the Signers are here represented, in very fine letters, and a few documents signed. Of several there are duplicates and triplicates. Thus of Franklin are two fine letters, of James Wilson three, etc. There are besides in addition to those in the volume, many fine portraits engraved on steel, making it altogether a volume of great interest and value.

Some twenty years since a less perfect, and in every way inferior, collection of original letters of the Signers only, was sold at auction in New York for a thousand dollars.

The following is a list of the Autograph Letters signed:

A note says this copy was collected by Mr. O. Rich for Mr. Murphy. The Elenchus is the reprint of De Bure. The map of the Phillipine Islands is, by mistake of the binder, placed in Part xii, immediately before the text.

The above is the title generally given in catalogues to the celebrated collection of voyages published by the family of De Bry, the first of whom, Theodore, was an engraver, print-seller, and publisher at Frankfort-on the-Main. Of all the early collections of voyages printed before the year 1600, this is the most extensive, and takes the foremost rank. Its value is increased on account of the important narratives which it embraces, for their completeness, and for the large number of beautiful copper-plate engravings with which almost every volume is illustrated.

The collection is divided into two series; the first is known as the "Great Voyages" ("Grands Voyages"), merely because the volumes are taller and wider than those of the second series, which is known as the "Small Voyages" ("Petits Voyages"). The former relate entirely to North and South America, although their assumed title is the "West Indies" ("Indiam Occidentalem"), to distinguish them from the "Small Voyages," which relate to the East Indies and Africa ("Indiam Orientalem"). The Latin edition of the "Great Voyages" consists of thirteen parts; the German of fourteen. The "Small Voyages" comprise twelve parts.

The conception and beginning of this collection is due to Theodor or Theodoric de Bry, who, in the year 1590, first published Hariot's Travels in, and an account of Virginia, which had appeared in London, in 1588, in a quarto form. The text of this narrative was printed in four languages: English, French, Latin and German, the same engravings being used in the several versions. The success of this volume, which was remarkably well got up, having a map and twenty-seven finely executed copper-plates, induced the publisher to issue a second volume the following year, relating to the Floridas, which the title designates as "Americæ Secunda Pars;" but as the demand for the English and French versions did not warrant a continuation of the work in these languages, they were discontinued. The second and subsequent parts, therefore, were only issued in Latin and German. At the time of his death, in March, 1598, Theodor de Bry had published six parts of his "Great Voyages," bearing dates from 1590 to 1596.

After the death of Theodor, the series was continued by his widow and his two sons, Johann Theodor and Johann Israel, who, in 1599, issued the 7th and 8th parts, and in 1600, the 9th part. After an interval of nineteen years, the publication of the work was resumed by Johann Theodor, at Oppenheim.

"This important collection should not be regarded as a book of curiosity on account of the number of its engravings and the extreme difficulty of forming a complete and well preserved copy. These Histories of Voyages and Travels made several centuries back, in countries a large part of which are even now imperfectly known, contain, in the midst of a multitude of fabulous details, very interesting particulars and valuable information, of which they are the primitive, and in some instances the only source. Many subsequent travellers are said to have eked out their own personal knowledge of the countries they have described by copious and unacknowledged extracts from these volumes. Doubtless the astonishment produced by the novelty of the objects around them, would easily lead into exaggeration the first discoverers of those distant countries, but they had the peculiar advantage of seeing them in their primitive state, before the changes produced by the subsequent and often calamitous visits of the nations of the old world. De Bry's collection is especially useful in the present day, for the purpose of instituting comparisons between his narratives and those of modern travellers to the same countries, and many of his statements formerly reputed fabulous, or exaggerated, have been confirmed by more recent accounts."—Bibliotheca Grenvilliana.

William Burnet was the son of Bishop Burnet, "a man of sense," says the historian Smith, "and polite learning, a well read scholar, and of a social disposition."

Gov. Cadwallader Colden writes of him thus: "Mr. Burnet, after he had been some years at New York, applied himself to the study of Scripture prophecy on principles which he told me he had received from Sir Isaac Newton. The prophets, he said, have a language peculiar to themselves, and that if their language be understood the prophecy becomes as easy to be understood as their other writings. He had an extraordinary memory, and he had read the prophecies so often over that he could at once point out the chapter and verse in which any subject was treated."—*Colden in New York Hist. Soc. 441 CABECA DE VACA. La Relacion y comentarios del gouernador Alvar Nunez Cabeca de Vaca, de lo acaescido en las dos jornadas que hizo a las Indias. BLACK LETTER. 4to. vellum, Impresso en Valladolid, por Francisco Fernandez de Cordova, 1555

This early edition of the Relation is of the greatest rarity.

The journey of Cabeça de Vaca across the entire continent from the peninsula of Florida to the Cinaloa on the Pacific, 1528 to 1537, and thence to the city of Mexico, is one of the most remarkable on record, and ranks in importance with that of Marco Polo in the East in the thirteenth century.

The volume also contains the Commentaries of Cabeça de Vaca as Adelentado of the Province of La Plata, written under his direction by Pero Hernandez, his Secretary. These appear here for the first time, and contain almost as marvellous a story as the relation of his voyage to Florida.

The Relation was translated into English by the late Buckingham Smith. The Commentaries were translated into French, and published by M. Ternaux Compans in 1837, in his Collection of Memoires.—Tom. 6.

Brasseur, following Beristain, attributes this work to the Jesuit Father Diego Pablo Gonzales. The author states that the idiom Charita, or Carita, to which the sacraments are adapted, is the common language of the nations spread along the rivers Mayo and Yaqui (in Sonora), and extending to all the villages of the province of Sinaloa.

4*to. half calf, no map or plates, except that of Niagara Falls; part of first leaf torn and repaired.*

This very rare volume relates to the early settlement of the Swedes in what they called New-Sweden, now portions of Delaware, Pennsylvania, and New Jersey.

Nothing is known of the author except that his grandfather, the Rev. John Campanius, accompanied Gov. Printz as his Chaplain to America in 1642, and here remained six years as pastor of the Swedish churches.

His work is divided into four books. The first treats of America in general. II. A brief history of the country both sides of the Delaware, then known as New Sweden. III. An account of the Indians who inhabited the banks of the Delaware, when they had not been corrupted by the whites. IV. A vocabulary and dialogues in the Indian language, with an addenda describing some of the wonderful things that were then current in Europe regarding America. The political history of the country, from the first settlement of the Swedes to the arrival of William Penn, and for some time afterwards, is not the less replete with interest for the present inhabitants of Pennsylvania, New Jersey and Delaware, as well as that of the habits, manners and customs of the Swedes and Dutchmen who inhabited this country before the English."—Duponceau.

So complete a collection of these rare pieces is seldom to be found, particularly in such fine condition, They attracted great attention throughout the Christian world when they first appeared, the first and most important one having been translated and printed in Latin, Spanish, German, Italian, French and English. The Carter-Brown Library, in Providence, possessed forty different editions of the Brevissima Relacion in various languages.

"The character of Las Casas may be inferred from his career. He was one of those to whose gifted minds are revealed those glorious moral truths which, like the lights of heaven, are fixed and the same for ever. He was a reformer, and had the virtues and errors of a reformer. He was inspired by one great and glorious idea. This was the key to all his thoughts, all that he said or wrote, and to every act of his long life. It was this which made him reckless of obstacles, led him to count too confidently on the coöperation of others, animated his discussion, sharpened his invective, too often steeped his pen in the gall of personal vituperation, led him to gross exaggeration, and a blind credulity of evil that rendered him unsafe as a counsellor, and unsuccessful in the practical concerns of life. . . . . The best commentary on his character is the estimation which he obtained in the court of his sovereign. A liberal pension was settled on him after his last return from America, which he chiefly expended on charitable objects. No measure of importance relating to the Indians was taken without his advice. He lived to see the fruits of his efforts in the positive amelioration of their condition, and in the popular admission of those great truths which it had been the object of his life to unfold."—Prescott, Hist. Conquest of Mexico, Vol. I., p. 377.

4to. engraved title, red mor. extra, top edge gilt, by Bradstreet, Francofurti, Theodori De Bry & Ioannis Sautii typis, 1598

A translation of the Brevissima Relacion de la destruycion de las Indias, with an abstract of the Entre los remedios, and some extracts from the tract Aqui se tiene una disputa o controversia, both by the same author.

It is remarkable for the plates of De Bry, representing the cruelties of the Spaniards. Appearing in the free city of Frankfort-on-the-Main 46 years after the publication of the original works of Las Casas, it was no doubt intended to prejudice the public mind against the Spaniards in their war with the Netherlands, by representing their inhumanity and atrocities in America, the memory of which was probably awakened by the execution of the Counts of Holland (Egmond and Horn) by the Duke of Alva. Navarrete accuses De Bry of this spirit in publishing in his collection the massacre of the French in Carolina, and the history of Benzoni.

569 CHINESE REPOSITORY. From the beginning in 1832 to the close of the year 1851. With the General Index.

20 vols. 8*vo. uniformly half bound in tea-colored calf, marbled edges, exceedingly scarce, Canton, China; printed for the Proprietors*, 1832–51

The most extensive as well as the best publication extant relating to the History, Literature, Language, Government, Religion and Statistics of China and adjacent countries. The labors of the missionaries are also fully given.

Among its contributors are Dr. Morrison, Messrs. Medhurst, Davis, Bridgman, Gutzloff, Abeel, Lowrie, Stevens; Milne and Dr. S. Wells Williams.

Complete sets of the work, particularly with the Index, are now extremely difficult to procure, as most of the copies were destroyed at the sacking of the British Factories in the war with Great Britain, growing out of the Chinese question.

Mr. Quaritch, the well known bookseller of London prices a copy in his Catalogue for October, 1882 at £40, ($200). A perfect set has never been offered at any auction sale in the United States.

570 CHITTENDEN, LUCIUS E. The Capture of Ticonderoga. Address before the Vermont Historical Society delivered at Montpelier, Vt., Oct. 8, 1872. 8*vo. one of five copies printed on Watman's Drawing Paper, sheets folded, Rutland*, 1872

17. Monumenta Franciscana. 1 vol.
18. Thomas of Elmham Historia. 1 vol.
19. Memorials of King Henry 7th. 1 vol.
20. Memorials of King Henry 5th, 1 vol.

It is impossible to overrate the value of this series of works to the historical student. Each Chronicle has been edited by some one of the most eminent modern authorities in English History, in such a manner as to represent with all possible correctness the writer's text, which is derived from a collation of the best MSS., and is accompanied by illustrative notes and a glossary. In the preface to each an account is given of the age and peculiarities of the MSS. used, together with a memoir of the author and an estimate of his historical credibility and value. The series already forms a corpus historicum, within reasonable limits, for the period from the earliest time of British history down to the end of the reign of Henry the Seventh.

576 CHRONOLOGIE SEPTENAIRE de l'Histoire de la Paix entre les Roys de France et d'Espagne. Contenant les choses plus memorables aduenuës en France, Espagne, Allemagne, Angleterre, ... & autres endroits de l'Europe: auec le succez de plusieurs nauigations faictes aux Indes Orientales, Occiden-tales & Septentrionales, depuis le commencement de l'an 1598 jusques à la fin de l'an 1604.

thick 8*vo. old vellum*, Paris, 1605

In a note Mr. Murphy says "this is really the first volume of the French Mercury, and that at page 415 it contains Champlain's First Voyage to Canada." Priced £4 4s. in a late London Catalogue.

577 CHURCH, THOMAS. Entertaining Passages Relating to Philip's War which began in the Month of June, 1675, as also of Expeditions more lately made against the Common Enemy, and Indian Rebels, in the Eastern parts of New England: with some account of the Divine Providence towards Benj. Church, Esq. 4*to. in the contemporary sheep binding*, exceedingly rare, Boston, B. Green, 1716

Copies have been sold at auction in New York as high as $300.

578 CHURCH. The Entertaining History of King Philip's War, which began in the Month of June, 1675, etc. Portraits of King Philip and Benj. Church.

12*mo. half red mor. top edge gilt*, Boston, 1716

579 CHURCHILL. A Collection of Voyages and Travels, with a General Preface, giving an account of the Progress of Navigation, from its first Beginning. Illustrated with a great number of useful Maps and Cuts, Curiously Engraven.

6 vols. folio, half calf, London, 1745

The introductory discourse in the first volume is supposed to have been written by John Locke.

580 CHYTRAEO, NATHANE. Variorum in Europa itinerum Deliciæ; seu ex variis manuscriptis selectiora tantum inscriptionum maxime recentium monumenta in Italia. . . . Anglia, etc. sm. 8*vo. vellum*, Herbornæ Nassoviorum, 1594

This volume contains the legends on Sebastian Cabot's map. See pp. 773–795. M. Jomard has omitted them on his fac-simile of the map. See p. 781, § viii., where the statement is made that Cabot's discovery of Newfoundland was in the year 1494. See also p. 791 as to the date of the map, viz.: 1549.

581 CHYTRÆO, NATHANE. Variorum in Europa Itinerum Deliciæ, etc. (Another copy.) thick sm. 8*vo. vellum*, n. p. Apud Christophorum Corvinum, 1606

The importance of this work for American history has been pointed out by Asher in his bibliographical appendix to "Hudson the Navigator."—London, 1860, p. 261.

In a large Planisphere in the Bib. Nationale, Paris, are explanations of the map wherein the date (1544), and the author, Sebastian Cabot, are indicated. They are in Spanish on one side, with a Latin version on the other. A reprint of the Latin side alone forms more than twenty closely printed pages in this volume. Chytraeus travelled in Europe to collect inscriptions and other scraps in Latin.

582 CICERO's Cato Major, or his Discourse of Old-Age: With Explanatory Notes.

8*vo. half calf, Philadelphia, B. Franklin*, 1744

Portrait of James Logan inserted.

The value of this book consists in its having been printed by Franklin, who has prefixed an address from "The printer to the Reader," in which he tells us that this is "the first translation of a classic in the western world," and that it was made by "the Honourable and Learned Mr. Logan, of Philadelphia."

This statement of the great philosopher is incorrect, as Sandy's translation of Ovid was made in Virginia about ninety years before, but printed in London.

583 CICERO. Officia Ciceronis Leerende wat yeghelijck in allen staten behoort te doen, beschreven int Latin door den orator Marceim Tullium Ciceronem.

4*to. half sheep, very rare, Valencia, Iayme de Bordazar*, 1689

This rare volume possesses an additional interest from its containing the celebrated prayer offered up by Columbus when he first set foot upon the soil of the New World. Irving, in speaking of this great event, says: "No sooner did he land, than he threw himself upon his knees, kissed the earth, and returned thanks to God with tears of joy. His example was followed by the rest, whose hearts overflowed with the same tears of gratitude."—Life of Columbus, Vol. I., p. 150.

The "Tabla Chronologica" thus notices the event: "La primera Isla que Don Christoval Colon descubriò, fué la de S. Salvador. Quando tomo tierra en ella hizo sta devota oracion: Domine Deus æternæ et omnipotens, sacra tuo verbo Cœlum, et terram, et mare creasti: benedicatur et glorificetur nomen tuum, laudetur tua Majestas, quæ dignata est per humilem servum tuum, ut ejus sacrum nomen agnoscatur et prædicetur in hac altera a mundi parte."—p. 164.

Clementi says the same prayer was afterwards used by Balbao, Cortes, and Pizarro, in their discoveries, by order of the Kings of Castile.

A Demonstration of True Love unto You the Rulers of the Colony of the Massachusetts in New-England; Shewing to you that are now in Authority, the unjust Paths that your Predecessors walked in, and of the Lord's Dealings with them in his severe judgments, for persecuting his Saints and Children. Which may be a Warning unto you, that you walk not in the same Steps, lest you come under the same Consideration.
4to. half mor. rare. Printed in the year 1674

Coddington came to Rhode Island in 1637. He was chosen Judge, or chief Ruler of the Colony at Newport, until it was incorporated with that of Providence, in 1647. Under the charter of 1663 he was twice elected Governor. He early embraced the doctrine of the Society of Friends, and was ever active in promoting the welfare of the colony which he had assisted in founding.

very rare, New York, 1754, London, reprinted 1746

Although this work was reprinted in London, it has been said that no copy is to be found in any of the public libraries in the United States, Mr. Menzies, of New York, having possessed the only copy known. The work seems to have become scarce as early as 1786, for in January of that year Mr. Jefferson, writing to Francis Hopkinson, observes: "Many, many years ago, Cadwallader Colden wrote a very small pamphlet on the subjects of Attraction and Impulsion, a copy of which he sent to Monsieur de Buffon. He was so charmed with it that he put it into the hands of a friend to translate, who lost it. It has ever since weighed upon his mind, and he has made repeated trials to have it found in England. But in vain. He applied to me. I am in hopes if you write a line to the booksellers of Philadelphia to rummage their shops, that some of them will find it. Or perhaps some of the careful old people of Philadelphia or New Jersey may have preserved a copy." Whether Hopkinson was successful does not appear.

613 COLDEN, (C.) The History of the Five Indian Nations Depending on the Province of New York In America.

12mo. calf, exceedingly rare, printed and sold by William Bradford in New York, 1727

The original edition, many times reprinted and expanded to two volumes.

A volume of very great rarity, not more than four or five copies being known in the United States. The Menzies copy brought $210, and another was sold by Mr. Sabin several years before for $175.

3 very stout vols. oblong 4to. old calf, with 220 curious maps and plates, finely engraved in the De Bry style, vellum, Amsterdam, 1646

Notwithstanding the limited nature of the title, these volumes relate almost as much to America as to the East Indies. Sixteen of the voyages in this collection were here published for the FIRST TIME, and a complete copy of the whole work is not easy to find, as each piece, although the pagination is consecutive, was separately printed. Much of the information contained in the valuable maps was not generally diffused for above a century afterwards; witness the admirable map of the World in the account of Spilbergen's Voyage in Vol. II. America is most completely and accurately drawn there, in its true shape; California is correctly represented as a Peninsula, although in most Atlases and geographical books, even down to the middle of last century, it was drawn and described as an island. Hudson's Bay is called "The bay where Hudson did winter," and the discoveries of the English navigator are all set forth.

Priced £21 in a late London Catalogue.

650 COMMON SENSE. Addressed to the Inhabitants of America. On the following Interesting Subjects: 1st, Of the Origin and Design of Government in general, with concise Remarks on the English Constitution, etc.

This is the first publication in print of the Laws of the Colony of Connecticut. The Laws of that Colony were, however, reduced to form in 1650, and, as then codified, were first published in 1822 at Hartford, in 8vo., making, with some other matter, 120 pages. The Code of 1650 contains many of the laws in this volume, word for word; many others are modified; and many are here introduced for the first time.

(4 copies,) royal 8*vo. large and thick paper, beautifully printed, half. mor. top edge gilt, Roxburgh style.*

DANKERS and SLUYTER, the narrative of whose voyage to New York in 1679–80 occupies this volume, were sent to America by the Society of Labadists with the view of selecting a suitable place for the establishment of a colony of that religious community. This sect originated ten years before in the islands of Zealand.

As the Society did not increase as much as its leaders expected, they determined to remove in a body to America, and thereby extend the boundaries of their church. They first went to Surinam, but the attempt to colonize here proved a failure, and was soon abandoned. They now thought that New Netherland, although surrendered to the English, presented better prospects for them, and Dankers and Sluyter, who were prominent members of the community, came to New York on a tour of observation. After visiting the settlements in the colonies of New York and New Jersey, and along the Delaware, they selected a spot at the head of Chesapeake Bay, lying in the present States of Delaware and Maryland, for which they obtained a patent. The work before us gives an account of their tour in the several Colonies while seeking a permanent locality for the society they represented.

Mr. Murphy procured the original manuscript from Mr. Frederick Muller, of Amsterdam, and translated it for the Long Island Historical Society, which Society published it in their collection. A few copies were printed with a separate title for Mr. Murphy's use, but were never offered for sale. A very small number were printed on large paper. The copies now offered are all that remain of the edition.

THE DARIEN COLONY.

An enterprise of great promise, called "The Company of Scotland trading to Africa and the Indies," was formed in Scotland in the year 1696-97, having in view the establishment of a direct intercourse between the two Indies, by a navigation across the Pacific Ocean. This company was formed under an act of the Parliament of Scotland, with the assent of King William III., "to erect companies for the establishment and carrying on trade with any nations or countries, or places in Asia, Africa and America, not inhabited, or at other places with the consent of the natives. The Darien Colony was only a part of the great design of the "Company of Scotland trading to Africa and the Indies." That design, says a writer in the Retrospective Rev., (Vol. II., New Series, p. 173,) had in view the general commercial improvement of Scotland, and aimed at extending trade to the north of Europe, as well as to the East and West. The company had originally more than half its shareholders in England, Holland and Germany, who withdrew in consequence of the jealousy of the older East India Companies; and in obedience to the malignant injunctions of the English Parliament, who impeached the leading Scottish adventurers for raising money in England to support the company. This treatment only the more vehemently roused the national spirit of the Scotch, and they alone provided all the funds needed for the work. Hence the Darien Colony of Caledonia assumed an exclusively Scottish character.

In February, 1700, the English House of Lords presented an address to the King, in which they complained that "the Scots Colony at Darien was inconsistent with the good of the plantation trade of England." The Parliament of Scotland showed their resentment at this address of the English Lords, by declaring that the proceedings of the Parliament of England in relation to their charter, "are an undue intermeddling in the affairs of this Kingdom, and an invasion upon the independence of our King and Parliament."

But this was not all. To cap the climax of the distresses of the colony, it was blockaded by a Spanish force, and reduced to the necessity of abandoning the settlement and removing to the island of Jamaica.

the two works bound together, royal 8*vo. half green mor. extra, top edge gilt*, Paris, 1869

This pretended American MS. is in reality a child's copy-book, full of rude drawings by a dirty-minded German school-boy, which having fallen into the hands of a missionary in the wilds of America, and by him been presented to the Marquis de Paulmy, has been taken by the worthy Abbé to be a genuine pictographic MS. Its German origin is established by the fact, that on page 64 the word "wurst," on 185 "Johann," and 119 "Konig," are plainly written. In consequence of the discovery of its real character, the book has been withdrawn from circulation.

12*mo. red mor. extra, by Bradstreet, very scarce*, Boston, 1750

The author of this tract was Rev. Benjamin Doolittle, who died at Northfield on the 9th of January, 1749.

In a genealogical memoir of the Doolittle family in Vol. 6 of the N. E. Hist. and Gen. Register, p. 294–5, it is said:

"This is a tract of much importance in the history of Massachusetts, especially as it details some events not elsewhere to be found; a period about which much less is known of our history than is known of the corresponding period a hundred years earlier. It is a work of great rarity, but a single copy having ever come under the knowledge of the writer, who has spent many years in collecting rare tracts on the history of New England."

[New Testament.] VVusku Wuttestamentum Nul-Lordumun Iesus Christ Nuppoquohwussuaeneumun. — Cambridge, Printed for the Right Honourable Corporation in London, for the propogation (sic) of the Gospel among the Indians in New England 1680.

(English title:) The Holy Bible: containing the Old Testament and the New. Translated into the Indian Language, and ordered to be Printed by the Commissioners of the United Colonies in New-England, At the Charge, and with the Consent of the Corporation in England for the Propagation of the Gospel amongst the Indians in New-England. Portrait of Robert Boyle inserted.

4to. calf, Title (Indian), 1 leaf; Dedication to the Hon. Robert Boyle, Governor, and to the Company for the Propation of the Gospel, &c., 1 leaf (verso blank); Old Test., A to Ppppp, in fours; names of the Books, 1 leaf (recto blank); N. Test. Title (as above), 1 leaf, verso blank; Text, A 2 to Kk 2; Psalms in Metre, 53 leaves, n. n., Kk 3 to Yy 4; Catechism, 1 leaf; and 1 blank leaf.

From the Library of the late Marquis of Hastings, Donnington Park, Leicestershire. In the original calf binding, well preserved, back gilt, lettered "ss. BIBLIA INDICA NOVÆ ANGLIÆ." The leaf measures 7¼ x 5⅞ inches. In all respects a REMARKABLY FINE copy, to which the Dedication to Boyle imparts EXTRAORDINARY RARITY.. Only three copies containing this Dedication are known, and two of these are in public libraries.

It is a remarkable event, not only in the propagation of the Gospel in America, but in the history of printing in the New World, that a second edition of Eliot's Indian Bible should have been printed in 1685, when that art was but in its infancy here, and when scarcely anything above a pamphlet had then come from the press. The proposition for the printing of this edition was submitted to the Commissioners of the United Colonies of New England for their consideration in 1678-79, by Mr. Eliot, who, among his several appeals, said, that King Philip had sent to him for books to read.—Plymouth Colony Records, Vol. X.

Alluding to a correspondence that Mr. Murphy had relative to this volume, he says in a note: "It would seem that this copy of the Indian Bible might be the identical copy which belonged to Robert Boyle. The extreme rarity of the Dedication strengthens the supposition.

"The later history of this volume as given me by Mr. Trumbull, the Indian philologist and executor of Mr. Brinley, is that at the sale a very few years ago, of the Marquis of Hastings' Library, as mentioned in the Brinley Catalogue, it was bought by Mr. Quaritch, Bookseller, London, who resold it to Mr. Brinley for $1,100." The Rev. John Eliot, pastor of Roxbury, Massachusetts, began the study of the Natick Indian language when forty-two years of age; and having acquired a knowledge of it expressed a desire to translate the Scriptures into it for the use of the natives, among whom he acted as a Missionary. Aided by an Indian who had been taught the art of printing, he completed the translation of the Old and New Testament, in 1658, after a labor of eight years. The fact having been made known to the London Society for the Propagation of the Gospel among the Indians of New England, by Governor Endicott, in a letter dated December 28, 1658, that body at once agreed to bear the expense of printing fifteen hundred copies of the New Testament. The following is an extract from the Society's letter, dated the 7th May, 1659:

"As to the printing of the Bible in the Indian language; mentioned in Mr. Endicott's letter; which wee vnderstand is alreddy translated into the Indian tounge; wee conceule will not onely be acceptable vnto God; but uery proffitable to the poor heathen and will much tend to the promotion of the sperituall part of this worke amongst them; and therfor wee offer it not onely as our owne but as the judgment of others that the New Testament bee first printed in the Indian language."—Hazard's "State Papers," Vol. II., p. 403.

First printed at Seville in 1519. This edition, which is exceedingly rare, is said to be the first book printed in Spanish relating to America, and unknown to Robertson.

"Enciso having gained a considerable sum in St. Domingo by practicing law, was induced by Ojeda to join him in an expedition of discovery and conquest to the continent of America. After suffering great hardships and hairbreadth escapes, which are related by Herrera, he returned to Spain, and published this work for the instruction of Charles V. The account of America is principally from his own observations."

"In addition to the foregoing, Mr. Harrisse says: "We must add that Martin Fernandez de Enciso first came to the New World with Rodrigo de Bastidas, was Aguazil of the Golden Castil, and owner of the vessel as well as the planner of the expedition in which Vasco Nuñez de Balboa acquired so much fame. A great hydrographer and explorer, his work is invaluable for the early geographical history of the continent."—Bib. Americana Vetustissima.

At the Bolton-Corney sale, London, 1871, a copy brought £66. In the Catalogue of Mr. B. Quaritch, London, 1873, it is priced £84.

SECOND EDITION, enlarged with two additional Relations, viz.: the one of Capt. Cook, and the other of Capt. Sharp. The latter forms Part IV. 4to. half brown calf, extra, red edges, London, for William Crooke, 1684

The title page to Vol. II., and several other leaves, have been misplaced by the binder, but the book is complete, with all the Portraits, Maps and Plates. See Mr. Murphy's note at the beginning of the volume.

This work attracted great attention in its day. The following is from the London Gazette of June 8, 1685:

"Westminster June 1. There have been lately Printed and Published two Books, one by Will. Crook, the other by Thos. Malthus, both Intitled The History of the Bucaniers; both which Books contained many False, Scandalous and Malitious Reflections on the Life and Actions of Sir Henry Morgan of Jamaica Kt. The said Henry Morgan hath by Judgment had in the King's-Bench-Court, recovered against the said Libel £200. Damages. And on the humble Solicitation and Request of William Crook, hath ben pleased to withdraw his Action against the said Crook, and accept of his Submission and Acknowledgement in Print."

4to. half brown mor. gilt edges, 1512

On page 172, under the date of 1509, is a passage which doubtless refers to some Indians whom a Dieppe pilot named Thomas Aubert took to France, mentioned by Charlevoix, in his "Hist. de la Nouvelle France," Vol. I., p. 14. We give a translation:

Anno 1509. Seven wild men are brought from that island (which is called Terra Nova) to Rouen with their canoe, clothing, and arms. They are of a sooty color, with thick lips, and bearing marks on the face drawn like blue veins along the cheek-bones from the ear to the middle of the chin. With hair black and coarse like a horse's mane. No beard throughout the whole life; no hair on the pubis, nor in any other part of the entire body, except on the head and eyebrows. They wear a girdle, in which is a sort of pouch to cover the privities; they form a dialect with the lips; religion they have none. Their canoe is of bark, which a man lifts on the shoulders with one hand. Their arms: Large bows, the strings being the intestines or sinews of animals; arrows, canes barbed with flint or fish-bone. Their food: broiled flesh; drink: water. Of bread and wine and money they have not the least use. They go naked, or clad in the skins of beasts, bears, and similar animals. Their country is in the parallel of the seventh climate beyond the west of France, etc.

The present edition is a beautiful specimen of early typography by Henry Stephens, Paris, 1512, with additions by various hands to that year.

Imprinted at London by Henry Middleton for Richardr Ihones. Anno Domini*, 1576, Aprilis, 12

A very rare volume, particularly with the wood-cut map, which is entitled, "A General Map onelye for the particuler declaration of this Discovery."

The eastern and western continents are laid down on the map. On the North-American portion is the Gulf of Mexico, New France, Canada, Labrador, and Greenland. North of New France and Labrador is a sea extending westward opposite to and near Japan. The ideas of the author in constructing this map were evidently borrowed from Frobisher, whose first voyage took place in 1576–77. The cities of Quivira and Cibola in New Mexico visited by the Spaniards in 1530–1540, are also laid down near the western ocean.

The epistle to the reader in this volume is from George Gascoigne, the well-known poet, in behalf of his friend, the author, in the course of which he says:

"Thus much (gentle reader) I have thought good (Allegorically) to write in the behalfe of the right worshipful & my very frend Sir Humfrey Gilbert Knight, the true authour of this little (yet profitable) Pamphlet, intituled 'A Discourse,' etc., in whose commendation I woulde fayne write as muche as hee deseruth, were I not afrayd to bee condemned by him of flatterie: which blame (with my friendes) I vse not to deserue." . . . ,

He closes with the following sonnet, in which he places Sir Humfrey only fifth among all the great American discoverers and navigators:

"A Prophetical Sonnet of the same George Gascoine, vpon the commendable trauaile which Sir Humfrey Gilbert hath disclosed in this worke.

"Men praise Columbus for the passing skil
Which he declared in Cosmographie,
And nam'd him first (as yet we cal him stil)
The 2. Neptune, dubd by dignity.
Americus Vesputius, for his paine,
Neptune the 3. ful worthely was named,
And Magellanus, by good right did gaine,
Neptune the 4. ful fitly to be famed.
But al those three, and al the worlde beside,
Dissouered not, a thing of more emprice,
Then in this booke, is learnedly descride,
By vertue of my worthie friendes deuice.
Yf such successe, to him (as them) thus fall,
Neptune the 5. we iustly may him call."

[First and second part of the general history of the Indies, with all the discovery and notable things which have happened from the time they were conquered to the year 1551. Together with the conquest of Mexico and New Spain.]

"Gomara," says Mr. Ticknor, "the oldest of the regular historians of the New World,—who was born at Seville in 1510, and was, for some time, Professor of Rhetoric at Alcala. His early life, spent in the mart of the American adventurers, seems to have given him an interest in them, and a knowledge of their affairs, which led him to write their history. The works he produced, besides one or two of less consequence, were, first, his 'History of the Indies,' which, after the Spanish fashion, begins with the creation of the world, and ends with the glories of Spain, though it is chiefly devoted to Columbus and the discovery and conquest of Peru; the second, his 'Chronicle of New Spain,' which is, in truth, merely the history and life of Cortes, and which, with this more appropriate title, was reprinted by Bustamente, in Mexico, in 1826. As the earliest records that were published concerning affairs which already stirred the whole of Christendom, these works had, at once, a great success, passing through two editions almost immediately, and being soon translated into French and Italian." . . . . "He was secretary of Cortes, and was misled by information received from him, and from other persons, who were too much of a part of the story they undertook to relate to tell it fairly. His mistakes, in consequence, are great and frequent."—Hist. of Spanish Literature, Vol. I., p. 558.

The History of the Spanish Proceedings in America.
4to. half calf, very rare, London, 1658–59

This copy contains a preface to both the 3d and 4th parts, signed Fernando Gorges, not in the Menzies copy.

There is much confusion in the books attributed to Gorges, who has appropriated to himself the authorship of a work written by another, as appears by the following extract from Prince's "New England," published in 1736:

"When I went to England, I met with a variety of books and pamphlets relating to this country. Among others is a history of New England, from 1628 to 1654, 4to., London, 1654. The running-title of the book is 'Wonder-Working Providence,' &c., and in the genuine title-page, no author is named. Some of the books were faced with a false title-page; wherein the work is wrongly assigned to Sir F. Gorges; but the true author was Mr. Johnson, of Woburn, in New England, as the late Judge Sewall assur'd me, as of a thing familiarly known among the fathers of the Massachusetts Colony." The third of these books was no more nor less than the identical history of New England.

[The most remarkable and renowned Voyages and Travels of the Portuguese, Spaniards, English, Danes, High and Low Dutch, as many others, chiefly undertaken for the Discovery of the East and West Indies, and other remote regions of the earth, etc.]

This folio edition contains precisely the same matter of text and illustrations as the octavo edition which appeared in 1707, but the pieces are differently arranged. In the latter they are placed chronologically, beginning with the narrative of Duplan Carpin, the Pope's Nuncio in Tartary in 1246-7, and ending with Dickenson's God's Protecting Providence in 1606. In the folio edition a different arrangement is adopted of the same materials. The relations are distributed under four different heads, having reference to the nations to which the writers belonged, and forming two volumes each; first, the voyages of the Portuguese; second, of the Spaniards; third, of the English; and fourth, of the French, Italians, Danes, Germans, Dutch and others,—a chronological order being observed in regard to the pieces in each of these subdivisions.

Imprinted at London for Thomas Woodcocke, dwelling in paules Church-yard, at the signe of the blacke beare*, 1582

This volume contains fourteen pieces, of which the following are notable:

3. A verie late and great probabilitie of a passage by the North-west part of America in fifty-eight degrees of northerly latitude.

5. Letters Patentes of King Henrie the Seventh, graunted vnto Iohn Gabote (Cabot) and his three sonnes, Lewes, Sebastian, and Santius, for the discouering of newe and vnknowen landes.

6. A note of Sebastian Gabotes voyage of Discouerie, taken out of an old Chronicle, written by Robert Fabian, sometime Alderman of London, which is in the custodie of John Stowe, Citizen, a diligent searcher and preserver of Antiquities.

9. The discouerie of the Isles of Frisland, Iseland, Engroueland, Estotiland, Drogeo, and Icaria, made by M. Nicolas Zeno, Knight, and M. Antonio his brother.

10. To the most Christian king of Fraunce, Fraunces the First. The Relation of Iohn Verarzanus, a Florentine, of the lande by him discouered in the name of his Maiestie, written at Diepe the eight of July 1524.

11. ¶ The true and last discouerie of Florida, made by Captain John Ribault in the yeere 1562. Dedicated to a great noble man of Fraunce, and translated into Englishe by one Thomas Hackit.

The most important piece is the relation of Verazzano, describing his voyage along the coast of North America, which is accompanied by a folding map bearing date of 1582, dedicated to Sir Philip Sidney. This early navigator was the first to enter the harbor, now known as New York, and Narraganset Bay. It is a volume of excessive rarity. The last copy, sold in London many years since, brought £75.

1116 HAKLUYT, (R.) The Principall Nauigations, Voiages and Discoueries of the English nation, made by Sea or ouer Land, to the most remote and farthest distant Quarters of the earth at any time within the compasse of these 1500 yeeres: Deuided into three seuerall parts, according to the positions of the Regions whereunto they were directed. . . . Including the English valiant attempts in searching almost all the corners of the vaste and new world of America, etc. BLACK LETTER. folio, blue mor. super extra, gilt edges, by Hering. Imprinted at London by George Bishop and Ralph Newberie, 1589

This copy contains the very rare folding map spoken of in the preface, "Typus Cosmographicus Universalis," and the six suppressed leaves, which follow page 643. A copy not as fine as this was sold at the Menzies sale for $105.

1117 HAKLUYT. The Principal Nauigations, Voiages, Traffiques, and Discoueries of the English Nation, made by Sea or ouerland to the remote and farthest distant quarters of the Earth, etc. Second Edition. BLACK LETTER.

3 vols. folio in 2, sprinkled calf, fine copy. Imprinted at London, by George Bishop, 1599–1600

Contains the Voyage to Cadiz reprinted in fac-similie, (see folio 607); also an admirable autotype fac-similie of the very rare map which belongs to the second edition, but which is rarely found in them. It is spoken of by Hakluyt in the preface to his first edition as being then preparing by Mr. Molyneau.

This second edition was first issued with a title page dated 1598, and containing on it a mention of the voyage to Cadiz, which was published with the book. The title page was reprinted with date of 1599, (as in this copy,) and no mention of the voyage to Cadiz, and the voyage itself castrated. See Oldys' British Librarian copied in Evans' ed. of Hakluyt, Vol. 1.

Regarding the map before alluded to, we give Mr. Hallam's opinion of its character:

"The best map of the sixteenth century," writes Hallam, "is one of uncommon rarity, which is found in a very few copies of the first (second) edition of Hakluyt's Voyages. This contains Davis's Straits, (Fretum Davis,) Virginia, by name, and the lake Ontario. The coast of Chili is placed more correctly than the prior maps of Ortelius. . . . The huge Terra Australis of the old geography is left out. Corea is represented near its place, and China with some degree of correctness; even the North Coast of New Holland is partially traced. The Strait of Arian, which had been presumed to divide Asia from Europe, has disappeared, while a marginal note states that the distance between these two continents in latitude 30 deg. is not less than 1,200 leages. . . . . But upon the whole it represents the utmost limit of geographical knowledge at the close of the sixteenth century, and far excels the maps in the edition of Ortelius at Antwerp in 1588."—Lit. of Europe, Vol. II., p. 494.

1118 HAKLUYT. Virginia Richly valued: By the description of the maine land of Florida, her next neighbour: Out of the foure yeeres continuall trauell and discouerie, for aboue one thousand miles East and West, of Don Ferdinando de Soto, and sixe hundred able men in his companie. . . . . Written by a Portugalle gentleman of Eluas, and translated out of Portuguese by Richard Haklvyt.

4to. calf, rare; printed by Felix Kyngston, London, 1609

The "Portugalle gentleman of Elvas" was De Soto, one of the most adventurous and intrepid of the Spanish conquerors, or "Banditti," as he may with truth be styled, who discovered and desolated America. The object of Hakluyt in translating this book was to serve the Virginia Company, to which it is dedicated. Mr. Sabin, of New York, sold a copy a few years since for $250.

1119 HAKLUYT. The Historie of the West Indies, Containing the Actes and Aduentures of the Spaniards, etc. . . . . Published in Latin by Mr. Hakluyt, and translated into English by M. Lok.

4to. half red mor. top edge gilt, London, Andrew Hebb, n. d.

The engraved titles to each of the eight Decades are different. They represent scenes and events in the History of Mexico, together with portraits of the most prominent men.

Speaking of the histories of America, Mr. Ticknor says: "Of this class, the first in importance and the most comprehensive in character, is 'The General History of the Indies,' by Antonio de Herrera. It embraces the period from the first discovery of America to the year 1545; and as Herrera was a practised writer, and, from his official position as historiographer to the Indies, had access to every source of information known in his time, his work, which was printed in 1601, is of very great value."—Hist. of Spanish Literature, Vol. III., p. 153.

D. for Iohn Rothwell and Henry Overton*, 1641

William Hooke was educated at Oxford, and emigrated to America, for "conscience sake," about the year 1636. He was minister at Taunton, Massachusetts, for seven or eight years, and about twelve at New Haven. He returned to England in 1656, and became chaplain to Oliver Cromwell, whose cousin he was. "His life in America," says Professor Tyler, "made him a true American." . . . . "Not many of his writings ever got into print. Those that were printed are sermons, and are of singular interest to us now for their literary merit, and for a certain flavor of American thought and emotion that still lurks in them."—*Hist. 1280 HUDSON, HENRY. Descriptio ac delineatio Geographica detectionis Freti. Sive, Transitvs ad Occasum, suprà terras Americanas, in Chinam atq: Iaponem ducturi, Recens investigati ab M. Henrico Hudsono Anglo. Item, Narratio, Ser^mo^ Regi Hispaniæ facta, super tractu, in quinta Orbis terrarum parte, cui Avstrialiæ Incognitæ nomen est, recens detecto, Per Capitaneum Ferdinandez de Quir. Map. sm. 4to. half red mor. top edge gilt, 23 unnumbered leaves, very rare, title mounted, Amsterodami. Ex officina Hesselij Gerardi, 1612

A portion of the title page has been torn off and replaced.

This small, though important work, might, with some reason, be assigned to Hessel Gerritsz, its author and compiler, rather than to Henry Hudson, a narrative of whose third and fourth voyage it contains among other articles; but as it is assigned to Hudson by Brunet, Muller, Sabin, and the "Bibliotheca Grenvilliana," it is placed under the name of the great navigator in this Catalogue.

Hessel Gerritsz was a contemporary of Hudson, and belonged to a class of persons to whom geographical science is deeply indebted,—a geographer, a mapmaker, and a publisher of geographical works. "His labours," writes Asher, "though few in number, are of the most genial nature. Fixing his eyes on the boundaries of the known world, he followed with enthusiasm the first rays of light that began to penetrate into regions of darkness and mystery. Hudson's chart of the fourth voyage was Gerritsz's first publication, and around it grew, in a very remarkable manner, the most interesting of the many collections of voyages and travels printed in the early part of the sixteenth century."—Henry Hudson, the Navigator. Hakluyt Soc., page 44.

1281 HUDSON, HENRY. Descriptio ac delineatio Geographica Detectionis Freti. Sive, Transitus ad Occasum suprà terras Americanas, in Chinam atq; Iaponem ducturi: Item Exegesis Regi Hispaniæ facta, super tractu recens detecto, in quintâ Orbis parte, cui nomen, Avstralis Incognita. Cum descriptione Terrarum Samoiedarum, & Tingoesiorum. Four maps and several wood-cuts. 4to. half mor. very rare, Amsterodami. Ex Officina, Hesselij Gerardi, Anno 1613

This is the second Latin edition of the so called Hudson Tract, by Hessel Gerritsz, and is materially enlarged. The account of the voyage of Henry Hudson in 1609 in which he discovered Hudson River, given as a supplement in some copies of the first edition of this tract (1612), is here rewritten and somewhat enlarged and thus made the leading article of the tract. But he adds also in the sixth subdivision, above mentioned, of the contents, an account of the voyage of Jan Mayen, who is referred to in the first edition of the work as then engaged in the northern discovery, giving briefly its contents.

Priced £18.18 in a recent Catalogue of B. Quaritch, London.

This title is a very uncommon one, and shows that Vitellius, and not Gerritez, was the translator of the Latin version.

1322 ITINERARIUM PORTUGALENSIUM e Lustania in Indiam et inde in occidentem & demum ad aquilonem. folio, a large map of Africa filling the title page, vellum, very rare, Milan, 1508

The Portuguese Itinerary is a Latin translation of the Paesi novamenti retrovati of 1507. It contains the navigations of Ca da Mosto; three of Columbus; that of Alonzo Negro; the voyage of the brothers Pinzon; the narrative of Joseph, the converted Indian, brought to Portugal by Cabral, and letters relating to the Portuguese voyages.

The eighth and last preliminary leaf (not including the two leaves of Index), ends with a metrical eulogium upon Madrignano, by Quintianus Stoa. The value of these leaves, which are rarely found in copies, must be estimated from the fact that they give an analysis of the contents of the work, together with the names of the discoverers. These leaves have been supplied by the photographic process, thereby adding greatly to its value.

The work is very rare. At the Bolton-Corney sale in London in 1869, a copy brought £157.

London, Iohn Legatt*, 1633

James's expedition was fitted out with the aid of merchants of Bristol, under the patronage of King Charles I., to whom the book is dedicated. He left Bristol on the 3rd May, 1631, and returned on the 23d October, of the following year. Some credit has been awarded Captain James for his scientific observations, but as far as discoveries go he accomplished nothing.

8*vo. French mottled calf, extremely rare*, [Paris], 1782

"This edition of Mr. Jefferson's celebrated Notes was evidently printed in Paris; but as Mr. Jefferson did not reach France until the year 1784, the date on the title probably is not that of the year in which it was printed, but of the year in which the manuscript was completed. A copy presented to M. Malesherbe had the following note, in Mr. Jefferson's handwriting: 'Mr. Jefferson having had a few copies of these notes printed to present to some of his friends, and to some estimable characters beyond that line, takes the liberty of presenting a copy to M. de Malesherbe, as a testimony of his respect to his character. Unwilling to expose them to the public eye, he begs the favour of M. de M. to put them into the hands of no person on whose care and fidelity he cannot rely, to guard them against publication.'"—Rich.

1344 JESUIT RELATIONS.

The "Jesuit Relations," as they are called, are among the most important of all the publications extant relating to the discovery and settlement of New France.

The earliest missionaries to whom we are indebted for these valuable "Relations" arrived in Canada in 1625, and at once made themselves acquainted with the Indian languages. They pushed on to what was then the Far West, and established their missions among the Hurons and other tribes, extending even to Lake Superior and the Upper Mississippi. Before seven years had elapsed, from the time of their arrival at Quebec, they had explored this vast and hitherto unknown region, from the Gulf of St. Lawrence to Lake Superior, and had planted the cross among its aboriginal tribes.

It is fortunate for the world that these Jesuit missionaries were men of learning and observation, as they have left us not only narratives of their travels and operations, but have given us particular accounts of the countries where they dwelt, of their productions, and of the Indian tribes which then swarmed throughout them. Every year they transmitted to the "Père Provincial," of the Company of Jesuits, their head, at Quebec, their journals or relations, which were sent to France and at once published. These interesting narratives did much towards keeping up an interest in the missions, in obtaining supplies for their support, and in inducing others, zealous in the cause of the conversion of the Indians, to devote themselves to the missionary enterprise. These Relations extend from the year 1632 to 1679. Of their merit, Charlevoix pronounces the following opinion:

"As those Fathers were scattered among all the nations with which the French were in relation, and as their missions obliged them to enter into the affairs of the Colony, their memoirs may be said to embrace an elaborate history thereof. There is no other source to which we can apply for instruction as to the progress of Religion, or for a knowledge of these people, all of whose languages they spoke. The style of these 'Relations' is extremely simple; but this simplicity itself has not contributed less to give them a great celebrity, than the curious and edifying matter they contain."—Histoire de la Nouvelle France, Vol. II., page xlviii.

An excellent memoir on these books, by the late Dr. E. B. O'Callaghan, of Albany, was printed by the New York Historical Society, with the following title: "Jesuit Relations of Discoveries and other Occurrences in Canada and the Northern and Western States of the Union, 1632-1672." New York, 1847. 8vo. A more extended bibliography of these Relations, including a number of tracts, embracing reprints and publications from manuscripts appertaining to the missions in Canada, has been printed by the Trustees of the Lenox Library.

Together, 42 volumes, of which 36 are the original editions, but all uniformly half bound in crimson morocco; a remarkably fine set.

Of this extraordinary set of the Jesuit Relations, we feel confidence in asserting that so complete, and so choice a one has never before been offered for sale either in Europe or America. Dr. O'Callaghan's set, sold with his library in New York, in 1882, contained 32 volumes; and one more recently offered for sale by Mr. Harrassowitz, of Leipzig, comprising 26 volumes. The collection of this set by Mr. Murphy was a work of his life. In the great book markets of London, Paris, Leipzig and Amsterdam, his agents were constantly on the look out for volumes, and it was only through this constant watchfulness that this remarkable set was made. The Leipzig copy, referred to, found a ready purchaser at 5,000 francs.

George Keith, a Quaker, came from Scotland to East Jersey, in 1682, where he held the office of Surveyor General. In 1689 he taught a school in Philadelphia. After writing various treatises in favor of the Quakers, he visited New England, where he had a controversy with Increase and Cotton Mather. A schism afterwards took place between him and his people, which resulted in his drawing many away as his followers, who called themselves Christian Quakers. He finally deserted the Society, became an Episcopalian, and officiated as a missionary of that denomination in New York and Boston.

One of the earliest books printed in the United States south of Massachusetts, and by the first printer in Pennsylvania and New York.

[The True Difference between Cold and Warm Countries demonstrated by the requirements necessary: I. For inhabiting both countries. II. For cultivating the same. III. In the enormous profits which, by their fruits, warm countries yield above cold ones; shown by the comparison of New Netherland being a cold country, and Guiana a warm one; both situated in America, but in different climates.]

According to Mr. Asher, this original Dutch edition is of great rarity, and until very recently was unknown to bibliographers. The German edition (Leipzig, 1662), is more common. Even Mr. Brodhead ("Hist. New Netherland") only cites the latter version.

This book possesses an interest connected with New Netherland, as it is said by Mr. Asher to have contributed its share in preventing the colonization of that colony, being written with this view, and with much ability.

"The author having an interest in the colony of Guiana, to which he was attached as an officer, attempts to show how much Guiana is superior to New Netherland for the purpose of colonization, and so to prove his assertions, shows what advantages warm countries have over cold ones. . . . . The arguments of the author, the exact calculation he pretends to make of the necessary expenses of colonization in each, his glowing descriptions of Guiana, induced many to go there, and to this we are to ascribe the vehemence with which the author of the "Kort Verhael" attacks Otto Keye."—Asher's Essay on Dutch Books.

Mr. Asher devotes five pages to an account of this work. "Of all the books," he says, "which the Dutch have left us on their American colony, of however various kinds they may be, none is certainly stranger than this. After the twenty-seventh page we entirely lose our way; everything is unknown to us,—ideas, the very words almost, the persons the author addresses, the diction,—in a word the whole book..... And although it belongs to the four or five first Dutch books on New Netherland, which were known in America, these writers treat it almost as if it was unknown to them. It is, however, an excellent source for a part of the History of New Netherland, which has as yet not been written; that of the influence of parties, and of their disputes on colonization."—Bib. Essay on Dutch Books, relating to New Netherland, Amst., 1854-67, p. 13.

Mr. Muller says the "Kort Verhael" is one of the most interesting and scarcest books on New Netherland, and that he had only found three copies in the course of twenty years."—Catalogue for 1872.

"This work," says Charlevoix, "which was ere long translated into French and published by the same Elzevirs in 1640, is full of excellent research, as well in regard to the European settlements in America, as in regard to the natural history and the character and manners of the Americans. The author has followed the best sources. He was, moreover, a man of ability, evincing everywhere great discernment and sound criticism, except in some places, where he consulted only Protestant authors, and yields too much to religious prejudice.

"He treats in the second book of the Island of Newfoundland, Cape Breton, and other islands of the Gulf of St. Lawrence, the Saguenay River; of the River St. Lawrence, of which he gives an exact description; of the city of Quebec, of the Indians best known, of Acadia, and of all that occurred in that country up to his time between the French and English.

"In the fourth book he gives an account of Florida. He recounts all the attempts of the Spaniards to settle there; the expeditions of the French; the settlement of St. Augustine by Menendez, and of the resistance which he had to make to the attack of the English under Sir Francis Drake."—History of New France, Vol. I., page 77.

2 vols. 12*mo. old calf*, very rare. Paris: Arnable Auroy, 1691

This is a very rare book in consequence of its having been suppressed by the French Government. Coxe, in his "Description of Carolana," says, p. 118, that it was published by order of the French King, but in consequence of its containing passages favoring, inadvertantly, the English pretensions, it was called in, "and that book of one livre price is not now (1741) to be purchashed for thirty livres."

Mr. Shea has given a very full notice of the work in his "Discovery of the Mississippi," (p. 78,) accompanied with coplous translations. It contains an original account of La Salle's voyage down that river by Father Anestatius, who accompanied the expedition.

Mr. Sparks, in his life of La Salle, attests (p. 91) the great rarity of this book at the present day.—Note by Mr. Murphy.

It is a view of New England,—more particularly of Massachusetts, taken upon the spot by an intelligent observer, who, though unsympathizing, was not, in the main, unfriendly."

1456 LEDERER. The Discoveries of John Lederer, in three several Marches from Virginia, to the West of Carolina, and other parts of the Continent: Begun in March, 1669, and ended in September, 1670. Together with a General Map of the whole Territory which he traversed. Collected and Translated out of Latine from his Discourse and Writings. By Sir William Talbot, Baronet. sm. 4to. green mor. gilt edges, with map of the territory traversed by Lederer; rare. London, 1672

Sir William Talbot thinks "it is clear from this book, that the long-looked-for discovery of the Indian Sea does nearly approach; and that Carolina presumes that the accomplishment of this glorious designe is reserved for her." Lederer, who was a German, travelled far into the interior of Virginia, and imagined that he had nearly reached the shores of the great South Sea. He made himself obnoxious to the people of Virginia, and sought refuge in Maryland, where he was well received by Sir William Talbot,—who, "finding him a modest and ingenious person and a pretty scholar," says, "I thought it common Justice to give him an occasion of vindicating himself from what I had heard of him; which truly he did with so convincing reason and circumstance, as quite abolished those former impressions in me, and made me desire this account of his travels, which here you have faithfully rendered out of Latine from his owne writings, with an entire map of the Territory he traversed."—Preface.

1471 LEON PINELO, ANTONIO DE. Epitome de la Biblioteca Oriental i Occidental, Nautica i Geografica.

4*to. half calf.* Madrid, Iuan Gonzales, 1629

The first edition of the earliest American Bibliography. It was greatly enlarged by the Marquis de Torre-nueva, and printed at Madrid in 1737,—in three folios, though generally bound in one. The first edition is valuable on account of the fuller articles which it contains on some American books. The author's surname was originally Leon; he afterwards took that of Pinelo, by which he is more generally known.

John Wolfe, [1598]

"About a twelvemonth agoe, a learned gentleman brought unto mee the Voyages and Naulgations of Iohn Huyghen van Linschoten into the Indies, written in the Dutche Tongue, which he wished might be translated into our Language, because hee thought it would be not only delightfull, but also very commodious for our English Nation. Upon this commendation and opinion, I procured the Translation thereof accordingly, and so thought good to publish the same in Print, to the ende it might bee made common and knowen to euery body."—Dedication.

"The author of this booke, John Hugh Linschote, of Harlem, continued in India for the most part of nine yeares, and had good opportunity of sure and certaine intelligences by reason of his service under Vicentius da Fonseca, a Fryer Dominican, & by King Philip created Archbishop of all India. This man Hugh Linschote behaved himselfe so honestly and warily during the time of his abode there, that he was not onely in high favour of his Lord and Maister, but he was also singularly and generally beloved of all the inhabitants and places where he was most resident. He did most diligently and considerately observe and collect together all accurrents and accidents that happened in his memory & knowledge, and the same hath committed to writing in the Dutch Tongue with all faithfulnes."

1561 MAGNUS. A Compendious History of the Goths, Svvedes, & Vandals and other Northern Nations. Written by Olaus Magnus, Arch-Bishop of Upsall, and Metropolitan of Svveden.
folio, half mor. London, J. Streater, 1658

An abridgment of the great work of Olaus Magnus, first printed in Latin, at Rome, in 1555, and subsequently issued in Italian and French. In the original work at the beginning, there is a map of the northern regions, upon which Greenland is laid down precisely as it appears in Ptolemy's "Cosmographiæ" of 1482.

1562 MAGNUS, OLAUS. Historia Olai Magni Gothi Archiepiscopi Upsalensis. De Gentivm Septentrionalium uariis conditionibus statibusue, &c., &c. folio, oaken boards, fine copy. Basil. Ex Officina Henric Petrina, 1640.

1563 MAGNUS, Olaus. De gentium Septentrionalium. . . . thick folio, oaken boards, fine copy. Basil.
Henric Petrina, 1640

On the map of the northern regions, in the beginning of this volume, we find Gruntlandia (Greenland) laid down precisely as it is in the map in Ptolemy's "Cosmographia," edition of 1482, as well as in subsequent editions. The town of Alba is laid down on the eastern coast, and beneath this land is "Hic habitant Pygmei vulgo Screlinger dicti."

This great work of Olaus Magnus, Archbishop of Upsal, on the countries of the North, takes the front rank among books relating to those parts. It was first printed in Latin, at Rome, by Viotto, in 1555; and at Basle, in 1567, both in folio. An Italian translation at Venice, in 1565; and an English translation by J. S., at London, by J. Streater, in 1638, folio. An abridgment by Corn. Scribon Graphæus, at Antwerp, in 1558 and 1562, in 8vo. At Amsterdam, in 1669, in 12mo. This abridgment was translated into French, and printed at Antwerp, C. Plantin, in 1561, and at Paris, by Martin le Jeune, the same year, in 8vo.

1581 MAPPE-MONDE de Fra Mauro (saec. XV.) reproduite par la Photographie. 4 large sheets in folio. Venice, 1866

This photographic reproduction was limited to a very small number of copies. The original map is preserved in the Ducal Palace at Venice.

1581* MAP annexed to the Memorial presented to the States General on the 18th Aug., 1616, by Gerrit Jacobsz Witson, cum socius, Directors of New Netherland, copied in fac-similie from the original in the National Archives at the Hague.

When this map was made the Delaware had not been explored by the Dutch, or at least, information of its having been done had not reached Holland, as we do not find the names of Cape Henry and Cornelius, which were given to it from Cornelius Jacobsen May, the first discoverer, according to De Laet, French ed. XII.

It will be observed that Mannates appears on this map as the name of New York island. De Laet says in the Nouveau Monde, p. 75, that Hudson so named it, that is, Manhattes.

1596* MARTIN, LUTHER. Modern Gratitude: Addressed to Richard Raynall Keene, concerning a Family Marriage.
8vo. sheep, Maryland, 1801
Very scarce; and a curious piece of American family and political history. The parties are the celebrated Luther Martin, the Attorney General of Maryland, a leading Federalist, and R. R. Keens, who was first Martin's Law Student, and afterwards his son-in-law, much against his wishes, and who was a warm Democrat. Mr. Martin has introduced in these letters an interesting sketch of his early life, depicting, too, the society in Maryland at the period of the revolution. —Note by Mr. Murphy.

(1511.) With wood-cut map, upon which are laid down the islands of Cuba, Hispaniola, Jamaica, Bermuda, Florida, etc.

folio, red mor. extra, gilt edges, by Bedford, exceedingly rare.

There were two issues of this volume in the same year. Several typographical errors being discovered after the first was struck off, two leaves were reprinted and issued with the remaining copies. A new title was reprinted for these, and the two leaves which were inserted between the Decade and the poetry, contain a list of errata and an address to Cardinal Ximenes on the value of illustrating the text with a chart. This chart, which is wanting in many copies, is remarkably correct for the period, and nothing equal to it appeared for a long time after.

Mr. Quaritch, in his Catalogue for 1879, prices a copy, with the map, at £100. We learn that this copy came to America.

1606 MARTYR. Ioannes ruffus foroliuiensis Archiepūs Cōsentin': legata': apo. ad lectorē de orbe nouo. Accipe non noti præclara uolumina mundi Oceani: & magnas noscito lector opes. Holland Documents, 1, 3, 4. Davies Hist. Holland, Vol. II., p. 743. (Note A.)

A quarto manuscript of 65 pages in the handwriting of Mr. Murphy, evidently a translation by himself from the Dutch.

1645 MAY. Journal van Jan Cornelisse May a° 1611–1612. A beautifully written Dutch manuscript, filling 263 pages, folio.

"The manuscript above mentioned," writes Mr. Murphy in a note appended to the MS., "was the result of researches made among the archives of the Netherlands during my sojourn at the Hague in 1857-61, for the purpose of obtaining any information to be found there in regard to the early explorations of the Dutch along the coast and on the main land of the United States. It contains the journal of the second voyage made by that people to our shores, which was fitted out with reference in a certain contingency to the same design, and under the same influence as that of Peter ——, as contemplated in the first voyage under Henry Hudson. Undertaken under different auspices, this voyage, like that of Hudson, had for its object the discovery of a northeast passage to the Indies, and only in the event of a failure to make any progress through the icy barrier in the north was it like his to turn to the west and search the shores of New France. Meeting with similar obstacles as those which beset our first voyager, the two vessels engaged in this expedition turned their prows accordingly to the west and struck our coast nearly at the same point as that first seen by Hudson, that is on the coast of Nova Scotia(?) and then proceeding west and south along the shore, explored the coast of New England, doubled the point of Cape Cod, and entered the waters of Long Island Sound in the month of ——, 1611. The occurrence of this voyage was known to our earlier writers; but it was not deemed by them of sufficient importance to demand particular mention, and, therefore, the particulars of it have remained unknown. The name of the voyage of the Fox and Crane is inaccurately described by some later historians as that of the Little Fox and Little Crane."

The Conquests and Triumphs of Grace: Being a Brief Narrative of the Success which the Gospel hath had among the Indians of Martha's Vineyard (and the Places adjacent) in New-England. With some Remarkable Curiosities, concerning the Numbers, the Customs, and the present Circumstances of the Indians on that Island. Further Explaining and Confirming the Account given of those Matters, by Mr. Cotton Mather, in the Life of the Renowned Mr. John Eliot, etc. 12*mo. blue levant mor. extra, panelled and gilt sides, inside lined with morocco, by Bedford, uncut, very rare. London, Nath. Hiller*, 1696

Mr. Menzies' copy sold for $105. No copy, save the present one, has ever been sold at any public sale in the United States. It is unnoticed by Kennett, Ternaux, Rich, Stevens, or Field.

In a MS. note Mr. Murphy says "it is curious that Cotton Mather, who reprints in his Magnalia, Book VI., a portion of it, does not mention the author's name; and Prince, in his account of the Mayhews, who were engaged in teaching the Gospel to the Indians of Martha's Vineyard, makes no mention of Matthew Mayhew, who wrote this book, and was a minister among the Indians."

1654 MEDINA, Pedro de. Arte de nauegar en que se contienen todas las Reglas, Declaraciones, Secretos, y Avisos que a la buena navegacion son necessarios, y se deũe saber, hecha por el maestro Pedro de Medina. folio, calf, Valladolid. Francisco Fernandez de Cordova, 1545

Following folio 21 is a map engraved on wood entitled Neuvo Mundo, in which both the eastern and western hemispheres are shown.

Pedro de Medina lived in the first part of the sixteenth century, and was chief examiner of pilots for the Indies. He also taught navigation, and was held in high estimation as a cosmographer. Brunet says his "'Arte de Navegar, was a great success, and was translated and printed in several languages."

The original Spanish edition of Medina was published at Valladolid in 1545, and reprinted in 1552 and 1561. Translated into French and Italian, it passed through numerous editions. An English version appeared in 1581.

The French edition is now considered valuable on account of its map, on which are shown names of places on the coast of North America for the first time on any published map. Another difference between the Spanish and French editions is that the calendar of Saints in the Spanish copy is not half as full as the French. Other differences exist.

4*to.* calf, Amsterdam, 1702

This is one of those literary forgeries which book traders get up sometimes for the lovers of the marvellous, at least so far as the account of New York is concerned.

Mr. Asher shows (p. 24 et seq.) that that portion of it is taken almost bodily from Van Der Donck and Montanus. He does not inform us, however, that though the work pretends to be translated from the English, it is entirely of Dutch manufacture.

There were two editions of the complete work. The first appeared at Amsterdam in 1681. The second, of which this is a copy, in 1702, with various publishers' names on the title. The date and preface, and an engraved second title, are the only differences between the two.

An edition of the part relating to New York, appeared separately in 1705, with other plates, copied from De Vries.—Note by Mr. Murphy.

Morton was a lawyer who came to Boston with Weston's company in 1622. He appears to have been of a jovial, roistering disposition, and quite out of place among the Puritan founders of New England. Speaking of his associates he says they were very popular with the settlers as long as their liquors lasted, and were turned adrift afterwards. He was unjustly charged with employing the Indians to hunt for him, furnishing them with arms and ammunition. The colonists caused him to be arrested. He escaped, but on the arrival of Gov. Winthrop, in 1630, he was again arrested, convicted and sent to England, and his house demolished, "that it might no longer be a roost for such unclean birds." In 1643, he returned, and was fined and imprisoned a year on account of his "scandalous book."

This translation of the first volume only of the collection of Navarrete, made by French scholars of eminence, and revised by the author himself, is especially valuable for its containing a "Chronological notice of some voyages and maratime discoverics of the Spaniards," furnished by M. Navarrete, not to be found in the original collection in Spanish, and accompanied by valuable notes thereon of the editors, and others equally eminent. The notice extends from the year 1393 to 1792, and embraces all the maritime expeditions of the Spaniards, and some others, during that period.

A very rare tract, not in the Carter-Brown Collection. Ends on page 35 with catchword and, followed by a Postscript.

Mr. Sabin, in noticing this tract, ascribes it to John Eliot. It forms No. IX. of the series of tracts issued by the Corporation. He speaks of its abrupt ending. "The reason why there is so short, an imperfect specimen given of it, is because the ships came away from New England before any more of the copy was wrought off from the press." It was reprinted for Joseph Sabin, New York, 1865, omitting the last portion.

This volume is an answer in vindication of certain members of the Dutch churches near Raritan River, who had been expelled from the church by sentence of Mr. Frelinghuysen and his consistories. These members had accused him of preaching false doctrine in insisting upon the necessity of regeneration, and of unjustly excluding them from partaking of the Holy Communion in consequence of their alleged unworthiness. He first admonished them of their conduct and then cited them to appear before the consistories, and on their failure so to do expelled them. Hence this published reply.

The Gazetteer was a Tory paper, and was patronized in all the principal towns by the advocates of British administration, who approved the measures adopted toward the colonies. It was continued until Nov. 27, 1775, on which day some armed men entered the city, on horseback, and beset his habitation, broke into his printing house, destroyed his press, threw his types into heaps, and carried away a large quantity of them which they melted into bullets.—*Thomas' Hist. 1830 NEW YORK. Documents, &c., same as the above. Duplicates of Vols. 1, 3, 4, 6 and 9. Together, 5 vols.

"The Public Records of the State of New York are, chiefly, in the office of the Secretary of State at Albany. They are as various in their character, as they are voluminous in their extent. Most of them relate to, and illustrate the History of the State; and without them no accurate or detailed knowledge of that history can be gained." These volumes contain translations of all the Early Dutch Records, besides a mass of Documents bringing the history of the State down to its political existence as a member of an independent federation.

1831 NEW YORK. NATURAL HISTORY OF THE STATE OF NEW YORK. 24 vols. 4*to. cloth.*

1838 NEW-YORK. The Laws of His Majesties Colony of New-York, as they were enacted by the Governour, Council and General Assembly (for the Time being,) in divers Sessions, the first of which began April 9th, 1691. pp. 324 and 20.
folio, calf. Printed by William Bradford, New York, 1719

The arrangement and paging of this edition of the Laws of New York require explanation in order to be understood. The volume is complete. The gaps in the numbering of the pages arise from the fact that it is made up of reprints of portions of the early acts, those of a temporary character being left out, by which means the number of pages is reduced; and of the session laws, subsequently passed, in the original sheets as they were printed, and continuously numbered with the earlier session laws, as printed at the time, containing the temporary as well as the permanent acts. The directions to be found on the reverse of the last leaf of the table of contents in the beginning of the book will explain the duplication of a large number of pages, by reason of the separate publication of an appropriation bill.

It is to be noted that this compilation differs materially from the edition printed in London in the same year, and that laws are found in each not in the other.—Note by Mr. Murphy.

Sold at the Menzies Sale for $67.50.

1874 ORTELIUS, ABRAHAM. Theatrvm orbis terrarvm. (Colophon:) Auctoris ære & cura impressum absolutumque apud Ægid. Coppenium Diesth. Antverpiæ M.D.LXX.

folio, engraved title, half russia, 53 copperplate maps engraved by Hogenberg.

The first edition of one of the most celebrated geographical works of the fifteenth century, of which there have been many subsequent editions, and in which the number of maps has been much increased.

Among the maps are one of the whole world, another of America, with Terra del Fuego extending east and west, forming a great southern continent. The map entitled "Septentrionalium Regionum," contains Greenland, with numerous rivers, and upon the southern side the towns of Aiba and St. Thomas. West of Greenland, corresponding to the western shore of Davis's Strait of our day, is Estotiland. South of this is the island of Drogeo, and east of this towards Iceland is the larger island of Frisland, upon which several towns, capes, and gulfs are laid down. These three latter named places are lands claimed to have been discovered by the brothers Zeni.

Mr. Muller, in his Catalogue of books on America, No. 1856, p. 122, says that a copy of this edition was exhibited at the exhibition for Geographical Sciences at Antwerp in 1871, and supposed to be unique. It wanted map No. 46. The present copy is, in all respects, complete.

1881 OTTLEY, Wm. Young. Inquiry concerning the Invention of Printing. 368 pp.
4to. boards; curious wood engravings of the early block-books.

This is an unfinished and UNPUBLISHED WORK, by the late celebrated writer, Mr. Ottley, author of the well-known, learned, and valuable "Inquiry into the Origin and Early History of Engraving upon Copper and in Wood," 2 vols. 4to. 1816.

In the author's preliminary observations on the method pursued in this work, he says: "The following work contains an account of researches, prosecuted at intervals during the last twenty years, upon the Origin of Printing, with a view to ascertain, if possible, whether the claims of Holland to the honor of that invention be, really well, or ill founded. In further prosecuting this inquiry I have endeavoured to bring to bear on the subject, various kinds of evidence, not resorted to, and perhaps not thought of, by previous writers; and I flatter myself that, in consequence, I have been enabled, in not a few instances, to clear up doubtful points; to prove the falsehood of opinions, until now generally held to be true; and to establish, incontrovertibly, the truth of some facts, at least, which have heretofore been denied, or contested."

It contains most minute particulars of all the arguments brought forward by those who favour either the claims of Holland or Germany, including the systems of Meerman, Heinecken, Santander, and Koning; the early use of Wood-engraving in Europe; an accurate collation of the various editions of the early Block-Books, viz.: the Biblia Pauperum; Historia seu Providentia Virginis Mariæ ex Cantico Canticorum; Speculum Humanæ Salvationis, &c., &c.

The first part of the natural and general history of the Indes, islands, and lands of the ocean sea. The letter at the end (fol. 192–3), signed in the autograph of Oviedo, addressed by him to Cardinal Loaysa, is not reprinted in the Madrid edition of 1850.

1887 OVIEDO Y VALDEZ. La Historia General de las Indias, (fol. cxciij.) (Another copy.)
folio, old vellum, title in red, with a rich border, very rare. Sevilla, Juam Cromberger, 1535. With the autograph signature of Oviedo at the end.

"Among the persons who early came to America, and have left importan records of their adventures and times, one of the most considerable was Gonza

F. de Oviedo..... His 'Natural and General History of the Indies' fills fifty books, of which the first portions, embracing twenty-one, were published in 1525, while the rest remain in manuscript. He tells us that he had the Emperor's authority to demand from the different governors of Spanish America the documents he might need for his work; and as his divisions of the subject are those which naturally arise from its geography, he appears to have gone judiciously about his task..... He was evidently a learned man, and maintained a correspondence with Ramusio, the Italian geographer, which could not fail to be useful to both parties. And he was desirous to write in a good and eloquent style, in which he sometimes succeeded. He has, on the whole, produced a series of accounts of the natural condition, the aboriginal inhabitants, and the political affairs of the wide-spread Spanish possessions in America, as they stood in the middle of the sixteenth century, which is of great value as a vast repository of facts, and not wholly without merit as a composition."—*Ticknor's Hist. Nicholas Ferrar was connected with American History from his having been Deputy Governor of the celebrated Virginia Company while the Earl of Southampton was Governor. He was also one of the managers. The meetings of the council were held at his house, and he seems to have been the chief man in it. Subsequently he took orders in the Church.

From the original manuscript of this work in the possession of P. Force, Esq., Washington, it appears that there are variations in the printed copy from the original, especially on page 116. The second paragraph in the original reads, "So soon as the report came of Capt. Lovewell's disaster, fifty men from New Hampshire, well armed, and with twelve days' subsistence, marched thither to bury the dead and draw off the wounded, but were so miserably terrify'd, that in a most shamefull and cowardly manner they returned without searching for the wounded or dead, or making the least discovery."—*H. The title contains the portraits of St. Brandan and Father Boyle. The latter accompanied Columbus on his second voyage, as apostolical vicar for the New World, attended by eleven ecclesiastics.

One of the plates represents a ship stranded on the back of a monstrous whale. The sailors could not get her off until the monks on board descended from the ship to the whale's back, and with full ceremony performed the grand mass, whereupon the monster descended gently into the sea, and the ship again floated.

The Philobiblon Society was instituted in London in 1853 by the Right Hon. R. Monckton Milnes (Lord Houghton) and others. Its membership was limited to persons interested in the history, collection or peculiarities of books. The number of members, at first thirty-five, was raised in 1857 to forty. Each member received two copies of the volumes published at the expense of the Club but usually only one of those printed at the private expense of the members. They are printed on fine paper and constitute one of the most valuable collections of tracts printed by the Printing Clubs and Societies of England.

The series is scarce and seldom found in market. Mr. Murphy's order for the books was for several years in the hands of his London correspondent, which were only received after his death, being the latest addition to his library.

The Harvard College elegiac and complimentary volume, in Latin, Greek and English, celebrating the death of George II. and the glorious accession of George III. These poems were the result of an invitation set up in the college inviting competition, and for which prizes were awarded. "The inevitable condition of such a work," says Mr. Duychinck, "is eulogy; so the departing guest is sped, and the coming welcomed, in the most rapturous figments of poetry.... All nature is called upon to weep, and again to rejoice; all hearts to bleed, and again to live, as one royal monarch ascends the skies and another the throne."—Cyc. American Lit.

Map. 4to. vellum. Venetiis, Erhardus Ratdolt, 1482
The map shows Europe, Asia, and the northern portion of Africa. On the latter we find the Nile, with its sources in two lakes, one directly on the equator, the other just south of it. These lakes correspond in place with those now called the Albert and Victoria Nyanza, showing that they were known to the geographers at least four centuries before their late re-discovery.

Genoa, Petrus Paulas Porrus, 1516

This polyglot Psalter is an important volume in a collection relating to America, an account of a biography of Columbus, by Guistiniani, the editor, on the margin of Psalm XIX., verses 1-4. Columbus having proclaimed that he had been chosen by God to exemplify the thought or prophecy expressed in this Psalm. Giustiani inserted on the margin of this book the biography referred to.

Fernando Columbus says, in the life of his father, (§ 1.) that Justiniani has inserted above a dozen falsehoods, which he specifies in his account, besides others which are obscure; and that the Senate of Genoa had, in consequence, imposed a penalty upon any person within their jurisdiction who should read or keep his Psalter, or his Chronicle, afterwards published, and had ordered both these books to be destroyed.

EDITIONS OF PTOLEMY'S GEOGRAPHY AND OF COMMENTARIES THEREON.

Claudius Ptolemy, a celebrated astronomer and geographer, was a native of Egypt, though it is uncertain whether he was born at Pelusium, or Ptolemais, in the Thebaid. He flourished at Alexandria in 139 A. D., and there is positive evidence that he was living in 161 A. D. Both as an astronomer and geographer he held supreme sway over the minds of almost all the scientific men from his own time down to about the beginning of the sixteenth century. As a geographer he appears before his readers as the corrector and improver of the works of a predecessor, Marinus of Tyre, about whom, except from Ptolemy's writings, little is known. His geography is divided into eight books, most of which are little more than a catalogue of places, with their latitude and longitude, and a brief description prefixed to each continent and country. The rest of the work contains details regarding his mode of noting the positions of places, by latitude and longitude, with a calculation of the sphere of the earth, and the extent of surface then known. His geography was the standard text-book till the great maritime discoveries of the fifteenth century showed its deficiencies.

"Of all [the ancient geographers] that I have named," writes Ramusio, "Ptolemy, as the latest, possessed the greatest extent of knowledge. Thus, towards the North, his knowledge carries him beyond the Caspian, and he is aware of its being shut in all around like a lake,—a fact which was unknown in the days of Strabo and Pliny, though the Romans were already the lords of the world. But though his knowledge extends so far, a tract of fifteen degrees beyond that sea he can describe only as Terra Incognita: and towards the South he is fain to apply the same character to all beyond the Equinoctial."—Col. Yale's Int. to Marco Polo's Travels, p. 2.

Folio, blue turkey mor. super extra gilt edges, rich inside gold tooling, 1462

The earliest date of any printed edition, but by bibliographers believed to be a typographical error, and that it should be 1482.

The following note by the late Mr. Murphy presents a clear statement regarding the work:

"There has been much discussion among the bibliographers in regard to the date of this volume, all, however, agreeing that it could not have been printed in 1462 at Bologna, as the Colophon asserts, but assigning different reasons for that opinion, as well as different years for the true date. One asserts that it could not have been printed in 1462, because Philip Bevaldus, who is mentioned in the note or epistle at the end of the book as having made the latest emendations of the text, was only born in 1453, and could not, therefore, have been more than nine years old when these corrections were made, which was of course impossible. Another shows that De Lapis was not installed as printer at Bologna until 1476; and a third proves that the custom of giving the reclames or direction words of the signatures in the register was not adopted for a dozen or more years after 1462. There is, however, a conclusive piece of evidence, independently of all these proofs, which has been overlooked, furnished on the very first page of the work. It is the dedication to Pope Alexander V. by Angeleas. That pontiff did not occupy the papal chair until 1464, and the book could not, therefore, have been dedicated to him as pope in 1462.

The true date seems to be 1482, although different other years have been assigned for that purpose. The manner in which the error occurred is supposed to have been by the displacement of XX from the year to the month, the type having fallen out and been wrongly replaced. The date reads

Anno M.CCCC.LXII.
Mense Junii XXIII. Bononie.

It was intended to be as follows;

Anno M.CCCC.LXXXII.
Mense Junii III. Bononie.

The first leaf contains an epistle from Donis, the translator, to Pope Paul II., beneath which is a picture representing the translator on his knees presenting his book to the Pope.

This edition of the Geography of Ptolemy, although prior to the discovery of America, obtains a place in an American collection for the reason that of the five new maps added by Donis, one of them, a map of the regions in the Sarmatic Ocean, under the Arctic Circle, represents Greenland, which is laid down under the name of Engroneland, but as a peninsula of the continent of Europe. This map was prepared by him before 1471.

This is the first impression of the first edition, of which there was a second embracing the index, as in that of 1486. See Brunet.

In regard to this edition see Lelewel's Geographie du Moyen Age. Tom. II. p. 126, sub Nicholas Donis. And particularly as to its representation of Greenland before the voyage of Columbus.

Donis mentions Greenland by name as one of the countries he had added to Ptolemy, in his dedication to the pope. Paul II. occupied his seat from 1464 to 1471 and consequently Greenland was known and so America at that time.

The maps in this beautiful edition are engraved on copper, and are the same that were used in the edition printed by Arnold Buckinck, at Rome, in 1478. They are claimed to be the first maps so executed, as appears by an extract from the Dedication on the reverse of the first leaf in that edition.

The original edition of 1478 alluded to, is exceedingly rare. We know of but one copy in the United States.

The title of this volume says there are six maps newly added, but specifies ten countries, five of these are on one map, namely, Poland, Hungary, Germany, Russia, and Lithuania. This edition may be called the original of that of 1508, which see for note.

The second map in this edition is the celebrated map by Ruysch, showing the discoveries in America, and undoubtedly belongs to the re-issue of this edition at Rome the next year (1508) with additions and corrections. It is there particularly referred to as an addition in a letter of the editor, Marcus Beneventus, the first publisher.

This is a re-issue of the edition of 1507, with the addition of a cosmographical description of the world by Marcus von Benevent, in which the writer describes, vaguely enough, the situation of Terra Nova, discovered by the Portuguese and English, and, in a distinct chapter, the land of Santa Cruz, in which he includes the northern coast of South America as well as Brazil, discovered, as he says, by the Portuguese and Columbus.

It is valuable for the addition of the map of the world by Johan Ruysch, a German, which is the first printed map on which the discoveries in America, are laid down, but without the name of America, and especially for its delineation of the coast of Brazil, which is evidently derived from the voyages of Vespucius. Newfoundland, to which Ruysch had, as Benevent informs us, made a voyage himself from the south of England, probably in one of the expeditions from Bristol after the Cabots, is shown, not as an island, but as part of the Asiatic continent. The discoveries of Columbus in the West Indies and on the northern coast of South America are represented very clearly, showing Cuba only in part, and as far as the great discoverer himself had explored it. Greenland, which is figured in the maps in the Ptolemies of 1482 and 1486, as a part of the European continent, is made here a peninsula of Asia. With the exception of the error in connecting the northern discoveries on the main land of Asia, the prevailing idea of that day, this map is a correct representation of the state of American discovery at the time of its publication.

2051 PTOLEMÆUS. Clavdii Ptholemaei Alexandrini Liber Geographiae cvm tabvlis et vniversali figvra et cvm additione locorvm quae a recentioribvs reperta svnt diligenti cvra emendatvs et impressvs. (Colophon, on the leaf preceding the maps:) VENETIIS per Iacobum Pentium de leucho Anno Domini. M.D.XI. Die XX. Mensis Martii. folio, title in red ink, half green turkey mor., extra, top edge gilt, maps engraved on wood. 1511

The annotations in this volume are by Bernard Sylvanus, a geographer of learning—one of the maps contains the discoveries of the then recent navigators. It is extended further eastward than the first one, and embraces Zapangu (Japan) and the East India Islands. The new world is represented in a narrow strip upon which appears Terra Cuba, Ispania and several small unnamed islands. Farther north are Regalis Domus and Terra Laboratorus. The northwestern part of Europe is called Engroneland. Upon the map of Africa are two lakes from which the Nile rises, which correspond to the lakes Nyanza, claimed by late English travellers as a new discovery.

This is the first engraved map on which the countries discovered by Gaspar Cortereal are laid down, though some writers assert that they are shown on Ruysch's map, which is so far correct that Newfoundland is there represented. But here the name of Corte Real is distinctly applied to the words regalis domus; and the designation terra laboratoris, or Labrador, also relates to his discoveries.

On the catalogue of Maisonneuve et Cie., Paris, 1878, priced 500 francs.

Secundæ partis Ptolemæi finis: opera Ioannis Schotti Argentinen. anno Christi opt. max.* 1513

Printed with the same type as the Cosmographiae Introductio of 1507 at St. Dié.

This is an entirely new and remarkable edition of Ptolemy by two different persons. The text is newly rendered into Latin by Matthew Ringman, whose name is grecized Philesius. The maps are divided into two series, one comprising twenty-seven which retain the old nomenclature, and the other consisting of twenty which show the different parts of the world according to modern discovery and knowledge, and are the work of Martin Waltzemüller, grecized Hylacomylus, the author of the "Cosmographiæ Introductio," published at St. Dié in 1507. They were prepared and engraved in the same year as that publication, at the expense of René, Duke of Lorraine, and remained unpublished, probably in consequence of his death, until their appearance in this volume. Two of them, entitled "Orbis typus Universalis juxta hydrographorum traditionem," and "Tabula terre nove," contain American discoveres. On the latter, Cuba, called Isabella, is represented as an island, which is a step beyond the map of Ruysch, though, in fact, it is of no later date. There is no representation of the northern discoveries of Newfoundland, but an incongruous and false delineation of a coast north and west of Cuba. The discoveries of the Spaniards and Portuguese along the coasts of South America are shown substantially the same as on the map of Ruysch and with some additional names. The map of the world contains only a portion of what is given of America on this one, and represents Greenland as a portion of Europe.

Priced on a late Leipzic catalogue 300 marks, ($75) and 350 francs on the Maisonneuve & Cie. catalogue, 1878, Paris.

2053 PTOLEMÆUS auctus restitutus, emaculatus. cum tabulis veteribus ac novis. (Colophon.) Caroli V. Imperii Anno I. vim vi repellere licet Ioannes Scotus. Argentorati literis excepit 1520. folio, half bound in green turkey mor. extra, top edge gilt, very tall copy.

The Tabula Terre Nove in this volume is the famous "Admiral's Map," or Hydrographie Portugaise, considered by some to have been the actual work of Columbus, by others of Cabral, by others of Vespucci; but most probably the first of the three.

This edition appears to have been published without any preface, introduction, note or comment, except the heading at fol. A ii.

The copy which Mr. Harrisse collated is imperfect. This one has besides the title page 56 unnumbered leaves of text and 47 maps, while that has only 54 leaves and 46 maps.

See D'Avezac's Waltzemüller, p. 156-7, and Harrisse's Additions, to B. A. V.

Laudabiti que fine perfecti XII. die Marcij. Anno M.D.XXII. Large folio, half russia,* (1522)

This is a new edition of the maps in the Ptolemy of 1513, on a somewhat smaller scale, with some alterations and additions, together with an additional map by Laurent Fries, the editor, similar to the map of the world taken from Waltzemüller. On this new map is inscribed the name "America," on the southern continent, which is represented, with the islands of Spagnola and Isabella. No portion of North America is shown on it. On the reverse of the 85th folio, numbered 100, Fries mentions Martin Ilacomylus as the author of the maps. On the map of the world taken from Waltzemüller, Brazil is called Terra Papagalli, i. e. Land of Parrots. On the map of the new world South America is called Terra Nova and North America Parias.

2056 PTOLEMÆUS. Clavdii Ptolemaei Geographicae enarationis Libri octo Bilibaldo Pirckeymero interprete. Another copy. folio, half calf, Argentoragi, M.D.XXV.

Following Tabula xii, is a map entitled "Oceani Occidentalis seu. Terre Nove," which gives the Florida coast, the islands of Isabella (Cuba), Spagnolia [sic], Iamaiqua, and the smaller islands to the eastward; also the northern portion of South America. The western portions of Europe, Anglia, Gallia, and Hispania, and a portion of Africa, are also given. "Terra Nova" appears on the South American portion of the map, with the words, "Hec terrarum adiacentib⁹ insulis inuenta est p Christoferum Columbum ianuensem ex mandato Regis Castelle." A picture representing savages feeding on human flesh is given.

A notice of the discovery of America by Columbus is given in the text on the right of a portion of the map.

On the map of Sweden and the regions north of the Baltic, and at the extreme north, is found Engronelant (Greenland), forming a peninsula, with Iceland at the west.

2057 PTOLEMÆUS—SERVETUS. Geographicae enarrationis libri octo. Ex Bilibaldi Pirckeymheri tralatione, sed ad Graeca & prisca exemplaria à Michaële Villanouano [Michael Servetus] iam primum recogniti, Adiecta insuper ab eodem scholia, quibus exoleta urbium nomina ad nostri seculi morē exponuntur. folio, old calf. Lugduni ex officina Melchioris et Gasparis Trechsel fratum, M.D.XXXV.

On the reverse of folio 28, which treats of "Oceani occidentalis seu terrae novae tabulae," is a map where, on the western part, between north latitude 50° and 60°, are laid down Parias, Isabella Insvl, Iamaiqua, Spagnoha [sic]. Under the equator, to the right of 5° south latitude, is an inscription in rude black letter: "Hec terraann adiacentibus insulis inuenta est p' Christoferum Columbum ianuensem ex mandato Regio Castelle." Beneath this, to the left, in large Roman capitals, is "Terra Nova." On folio 50 is the last map, headed in a rude woodcut engraving: "Orbis. typvs. vniversalis. iuxta. hydrographorum. traditionem. exactissime. depicta. 1532. L. F." On the west, opposite 40° north latitude, is Isabella, and farther south Spagnola. Below, in large Gothic letters, is America.

This edition is rare, as all the copies that could be obtained were burned by order of Calvin. It is somewhat celebrated on account of the name of its editor, Michel Servetus, the martyr. It is stated that one of the charges brought against Servetus, for which he suffered, was a passage from this edition of Ptolemy, stating that Palestine was not such a fertile country as people generally believed, since modern travellers related that it was quite barren. The paragraph is alluded to by Ebert, Brunet, Harrisse, and others, but all of them make the same mistake with regard to its position in the book. It appears that Servetus copied it from the editions of 1522 and 1525, and hence, was not the author of the paragraph. The objectionable paragraph was omitted in the next edition of Ptolemy.

Pierre de Sérvastanoff, précédée d'une introduction historique sur le Mont Athos, les monastères et les dépôts litteraires de la presqu'ile sainte par Victor Langlois. folio, boards, Paris, 1867

A large number of existing manuscripts are dated from the monasteries immediately surrounding the metropolis of the eastern empire, but no spot was more famed for the production of books than Mount Athos. The chief occupation of the inmates of these establishments is affirmed to have been the transcription of books, of which each monastery boasted a large collection.

This appears to be a new edition of the maps of Ptolemy restored by Mercator, and first printed at Cologne in 1578.

Franeker, where it was issued, is a small town near Leewarden, in Friesland, where there was formerly a university of some celebrity.

The publication of Mercator was like this without any text, but it had notes as may be inferred from Brunet's description of Hondius' edition of Ptolemy, 1618, and the maps were intended to show the design of Ptolemy better than appears in those of Agathodæmon, which were received up to that time.—Note by H. C. Murphy.

The Dedication is inscribed, "Reuerendissimo in christo patri et domino: Joanni dei gracia Episcopo Posnaniesi Ioannes de Stobnicza S. d."

Upon the same page we read:

And lest for Ptolemy alone I had labored, I have taken care also to make notes about certain parts of the land unknown to Ptolemy and other older writers, which have come to our knowledge through the travels of Americus, and others.

Upon the reverse of fol. V., in the Chapter De Meridianis, after speaking of the discovery by Vespucius of parts unknown to Ptolemy, Stobnicza says:

Likewise in the west beyond Africa and Europe, there is a large part of the earth which they call America, after Americus its discoverer, but it is commonly called the new world.

Again, upon the reverse of folio vii., in the chapter "De partibus terre," we read:

Not only the before-mentioned three parts (of the earth) are now known, but another, a fourth part, has been discovered by Amerigo Vespucci, a man of penetrating genius, which part they propose to call Amerigen, or America, the the land of Amerigo, after the same Amerigo, its discoverer.

The western hemisphere, as here shown, embraces the portion of the world not described by Ptolemy, extending 180 degrees westwardly from the Canaries. It is limited by the seventieth degree of north latitude and the fiftieth south. It consequently includes eastern Asia and its adjacent islands.

The new world is represented, but without the name of America or any other designating the whole coutinent. There are, however, a few names of particular parts. Above the fortieth parallel of north latitude are the words, "ortus de bona ventura," beyond which the continent extends to latitude 50° N. The coast line from thence south along the Atlantic resembles closely the configuration on the map of the New World in the Ptolemy of 1513. On the main land, in latitude 30° N., occurs the name of Isabella. There are two large islands corresponding in their positions relatively to the continent with Cuba and Hispaniola, the former not named, and the latter bearing the name of Spagnolla. A peninsula extends to the Gulf of Mexico in the direction of Yucatan, with the name of Arcay beneath it. Farther east along the same coast is the incomplete title of CAPUT DE STA DE.

The volume is of great rarity. The very curious map of America, before it had received its name, is only found in the copy in the Imperial Library, Vienna, from which a photograph fac-simile was obtained for the present copy. We know of but one other copy in the United States.

A copy in a late Leipzig Catalogue, without the maps, was priced 500 marks. ($100.)

Venetia Giunti, 1554

This important work, as is well known, contains many of the earliest voyages relating to America. It is equally valuable for its relations and geographical treatises on Asia and Africa.

"Ramusio's collection of Voyages and Travels, the most perfect work of that nature extant in any language whatsoever; containing all the discoveries to the East, West, North and South; with full descriptions of all the countries discovered; judiciously compiled, and free from that great mass of useless matter, which swells our English Hackluyt and Purchas: much more complete and full than the Latin De Bry, and, in fine, the noblest work of this nature."—Locke.

Robinson was an English dissenting clergyman, born in 1575. Owing to certain persecutions in England, he removed to Leyden, in Holland. In 1617 he entered into the plan of forming a settlement in America. He intended to leave with Brewster, but died before the consent of the English merchants who controlled the enterprise could be obtained. The rest of his church emigrated soon after his death.—New Eng. Genealog. Reg., April, 1866.

2212 SANUTO, (LIVIO). Geografia distinta in XII. libri, ne' quali, oltra l'esplicatione di molti luoghi di Tolomeo e della Bussola, e dell' Aguglia; si dichiarano le Prouincie, Popoli, Regni, Città, Porti, Monti, Fiumi, Laghi e Costumi dell' Africa: Con XII. tauole di essa Africa in dissegno di rame. Aggiuntini de piu tre Indici da M. Giovan Carlo Saraceni.

folio, fine, clean and perfect copy in the original vellum, scarce. Vinegia, Damiano Zenaro, 1588

As it is impossible for the thorough student of mediæval geography to budge an inch without having read the works of Marino Sanuto, so no thorough student of historical geography, especially African and American of the last half of the sixteenth century, can touch bottom in his subject till he has digested this work of Livio Sanuto. To him more, perhaps, than to any one writer, we owe the clearing up of the subject, and the brushing away the rubbish and blunders of the inland German and French geographers of the previous half century, such as Schöner, Apianus, Munster, Finé, and others.—Stevens' Bibliotheca Geographica, London, 1872.

Of course Sanuto describes the manners and customs of Africa in this Gazetteer, but he does it under the name of each place. Speaking of Cairo, folio 107, he says that they punish a murderer by cutting him in two and putting the upper half of the body, with the head, upon a dish of quicklime, where, he states, it remains alive for a quarter of an hour, keeps on talking, and answers any questions put to it! As to Cattigara, he is of opinion that previous writers have blundered about it, for that in circumnavigating the globe, nothing was found but sea in the place where Ptolemy and others had placed Cattigara, and they thought that if it was in that latitude at all, it might be in the longitude of Peru. For some other interesting particulars concerning our author, consult Biddle, p. 31 and 178, and Lelewel, and the Preface of the following work by Marino Sanuto.

large folio, with 2,250 wood-cuts in the text, engraved by Pleydenwurff and Wolgemuth, the latter Albert Durer's master; half red mor. a remarkably fine and tall copy.

"This volume is not only famous for its wood-cuts, but is an authority sometimes quoted in support of the claim to the discovery of America by Martin Behaim, before Columbus. The passage referred to occurs on the reverse of fol. 290, where the writer of the chronicle, after speaking of the discoveries made through the efforts of Prince Henry, of Portugal, the Navigator, proceeds to relate that subsequently in the year 1483, João II., of that country, a king of most exalted mind, supplied some galleys with provisions, and sent them beyond the Pillars of Hercules to make explorations in the South towards Ethiopia, under the command of Jacob Can (Diogo Cam) and Martin Behaim, of Nuremberg, in Upper Germany; a Bohemian of good family, who was both well acquainted with the situation of the earth and used to the sea, and who understood thoroughly the longitudes and latitudes of Ptolemy in the West, from experience and long navigating; and that these two sailed into the Southern Ocean under favorable auspices, coasting not far from the shore, and crossed the equator into another world, where, when they stood with their faces towards the East, they projected a shadow on their right hand towards the South. Thus by their industry they opened another world before that unknown to us, and for many years afterwards unoccupied by any persons except some Genoese who did so, however, to no purpose. Having in this way finished their voyage, they returned to Portugal in the 26th month, many of the crew having died in consequence of the extreme heat of the climate. In proof of their discovery, they brought home with them pepper, grains of Paradise, and many others which it would be tedious to enumerate.

"It is partly from the slender grounds which this description affords, that the claim of the discovery of America is set up for Martin Behaim. There is really nothing in the statement to warrant the idea that he ever saw America, but on the contrary, that hugging the coast south of Gibralter, he saw only Africa. He thus crossed the equator, which had not been accomplished previously, and was therefore the opening to Europeans of another hemisphere, or world, but not the discovery of what came to be called by distinction the New World. It seems, therefore, unnecessary to adduce the circumstance which was disclosed through the researches of Mr. von Murr, that the whole passage is interpolated by another hand in the manuscript which still exists.

"Martin Behaim constructed a globe, which still exists, showing the whole face of the earth as he supposed it to exist, filling up the sea of darkness which lay beyond the limits of Western Europe. In it he laid down the Canary Islands, the Cape Verd Islands, Madeira and the Azores, which were then well known, and beyond them to the West, the fabulous Antila and Saint Brandan, and then without any intermediate continent, and at no great distance the islands of Cathai and Zipangu (Japan), mentioned by Marco Polo. This globe was made, it is said, in 1492, the same year in which Columbus made his first voyage and discovery. It does not show any portion of America, but does exhibit many islands which are not named, both North and South of Zipangu, which, of course, could have no reference to the islands discovered by Columbus several thousand miles East of that island."—Note by Mr. Murphy.

6 vols. royal 4to. half red mor. extra, top edges gilt, numerous steel engravings. Philadelphia, 1851–57

The LARGE PAPER GOVERNMENT EDITION, on fine paper, of which but a small number of copies were printed, when it went into private hands.

"This great work is a complete Thesaurus—an overflowing treasury of knowledge, respecting the Aborigines of America. It embraces their history, ethnography, antiquities, and languages; their ancient and modern geography; their manners and customs, religion and superstitions; their agriculture, commerce and trade; their ornamental arts, and their physical and intellectual peculiarities. All these subjects are treated, not in a general and summary manner, but in detail, each topic being patiently and thoroughly discussed and exhausted; the work, although mainly executed by the author's own hand, having received the contributions of many savans thoroughly conversant with particular subjects embraced in its pages. The result is such a work as could have been produced in no other way. It is the most complete and thorough collection of treatises relating to the Indians, and comprises also the only general history of the aboriginal race, which has ever been published. It is a Library of Indian history and ethnography, and embraces within itself the substance of all that is known concerning the tribes as tribes, and the race as a race."

Norimbergæ, J. Stuchssen, 1515

[A most luminous description of the whole earth, together with many very useful elements of Geography.]

The author was the maker of the famous globe, at Nuremberg, of 1520. At p. 60 of this work he describes America, and appears to have been the first who adopted that name for our continent, in preference of the suggestion of Waltze müller.

[Journal or description of the wonderful voyage of William Cornelius Schouten, of Hoorn, in the years 1615, 1616, and 1617. How he discovered the Strait of Magellan, a new passage to the great South Sea, and how he further circumnavigated the whole globe.]

The first edition of this celebrated voyage, copies of which are rare. Mr. Tiele in preparing his "Memoire Bibliographique sur les Journaux des Navigateurs Néelandais," could find no copy but in the Royal Library at the Hague. Editions have been printed in Dutch, German, Latin, French, Italian, and English, of which no less than thirty-one are noticed by Tiele, published in Holland. Besides these it has frequently been printed with the voyage of Le Maire. The narrative will also be found in the collections: De Bry, "Grands Voyages." Part XI.; in Hulsius, Part XVI.; in Purchas, Vol. I., pages 88–107; in Dalrymple's Vol. II., pages 1–64, and in other Collections.

4*to. red mor. gilt edges, by Bradstreet, very rare.*

Edinburgh, printed by John Reid, 1685

It appears that Scot, by whom the Preface is signed, came to America and examined the coast "from the River of Canada, Northerly, to the River of May, Southerly, in that part of Florida, now called Caralina; having in my search," he writes, "had the opportunity of informing myself of the different nature of the Soils, the temperature of the Climats, the healthfulness of the places, the constitutions of the several Governments, the convenience of Access; to East-Jersey, upon the River of Hudson, the place I find myself oblidged to preferr to any of the other English Plantations upon that coast, upon some or other, if not most of the above named considerations."

About one third the volume is taken up with contemporary letters from persons living in New Jersey, to their friends in Scotland.

The few copies that have turned up of this very rare volume have brought high prices. Dr. Long's copy, sold in London in 1879, brought £28.10. A copy in the Catalogue of W. Paterson, Edinburgh, 1880, was priced £18.18.

A reprint of a volume of excessive rarity. It is mentioned in the catalogues of none of the large libraries except that of the Grenville Collection in the British Museum. The "Bib. Grenvilliana" says there are two editions, printed in the same year, with slight alterations in the same number of leaves. An edition of fifty copies, corresponding with the original edition, page for page, except that Roman letters are used, was printed in Providence, for Mr. John Carter Brown, in 1868, for private distribution. It is also reprinted in the second volume of Sir Egerton Brydges, "Restituta," London, 1814.

Or, an Historical Narration of Gods Wonderfull Workings upon sundry of the Indians, both Governors and Common-people, in bringing them to a willing and desired submission to the Ordinances of the Gospel. 4*to. dark blue mor.*

London. Printed by R. Cotes for John Bellamy, 1648

This may be considered the third printed record of the progress of the missions among the Indians of New England. The first publication was called "New England's First Fruits," 1643, see No. 1772; the second, "The Day Breaking," etc., 1647. This volume contains a long letter from John Eliot. The work is dedicated to "The High Court of Parliament," and is signed by Edm. Calamy and elven others, who were probably the founders of the Society for the Propagation of the Gospel among the Indians of New England, incorporated in 1649. It was this society which, in 1661, on the recommendation of Governor Endicott, of Massachusetts, authorized the printing, at its expense, of the Bible and New Testament in the Indian language of New England. The London Times of May 28th, 1855, speaking of this work, says:—"Now one great charm in Mr. Simpson's excellent views of the 'Seat of War in the Crimea' is that the battle subjects are in a decided minority. The artist did not, while making his sketches on the spot, devote his energies to the contemplation of obscurable smoke and undefinable masses, but he plunged himself into the varieties of Crimean life, and rather sought for individual objects of sympathy than wasted his affections on compact crowds. If he looks at Sebastapol from the deck of a ship, he cares as much, or more, for the sailors on board as for the city in the distance; and if he takes you to a battery, it is chiefly to show you how humanity manifests itself under the circumstances, with certain phases of fortitude and laziness such as are not to be found save as the result of similar influences." Among the pictures is one representing the famous charge of the six hundred, immortalized by Tennyson.

"It would be difficult," says Mr. Tudor, "to find any individual who experienced more gallant adventures, and daring enterprises, of a highly romantic character in various countries, than that of the author of this volume. His life might easily be taken for a mere romance. He appears to have possessed many great qualities, and to have been deficient in nothing but that mean, cunning, and sordid spirit, by the aid of which, inferior men were able to thwart his views, and deprive him of those stations and rewards, which his services amply merited. He was one of the earliest and most ardent of those who undertook the settlement of Virginia."—North Am. Rev., Vol. IV., page 145.

2334 SOCIETY FOR THE PROMOTION OF THE GOSPEL IN FOREIGN PARTS. Established by Royal Charter of King William III. Account of the Society, Sermons, Abstracts, Proceedings, etc., From 1701 to 1800.
10 thick vols. 4to. half maroon mor. top edge gilt, v. y.

This ancient society originating with Queen Mary, was established by King William and encouraged by Queen Anne. Queen Mary gave £200 a year during her life, and her successors also made liberal gifts. The nobility and Bishops were also active in their aid to the Society. Its objects were, the care and instruction of the people in the British Colonies in America; the conversion of the Indians, and the conversion of the negroes. Ministers of the Church of England were sent to the Colonies, who established churches where they did not already exist. A sermon was delivered every year by a Bishop of the Church of England, each of which was accompanied by an abstract of the proceedings of the Society and a sketch of its operations. The reports thus annually made present an interesting and truthful account of the progress of religion and the state of society in the colonies during the eighteenth century, and are therefore of great value.

Complete sets of these publications are exceedingly rare. We have never met with so perfect a set in any library in the United States, public or private. Mr. Murphy was many years in forming this copy. A very imperfect set in numbers was sold at an auction in New York in 1882 for $114.00.

Viennæ Austriæ per Ioannem Singreniū, 1520

With the very rare map engraved on wood, wanting in most copies. This map, which measures 11½ by 14½ inches, is of great interest, inasmuch as it is said to be the earliest engraved one yet known bearing the name of AMERICA. It is called a Delineation of the entire world; prepared according to the teaching of Ptolemy, the cosmographer, and the voyages of Americus Vespucius and others, by Peter Apian of Leissnig.

In Le Clerc's Bibl. Amer. (1881) a copy is priced 500 francs; and in Ellis & White's catalogue (1877) $25.

2358 SPELMAN, HENRY. Relation of Virginia. 1609. London. square 18mo. 58 pp. One hundred copies printed for Jas. F. Hunnewell at the Chiswick Press, 1872

The original manuscript of this tract was purchased by Mr. J. F. Hunnewell, of Boston, at the auction sale of the stock of Mr. Lilly, Bookseller, London, in July, 1871, who had a few copies printed for presents.

Henry Spelman was the third son of Sir Henry Spelman, the distinguished antiquary, and went to Virginia with five hundred emigrants in 1609. He is favorably mentioned by Captain John Smith in his "General Historie of Virginia," as well as by Stith. It appears that Spelman was on one occasion detained a prisoner by the Indians, and was the only one of the party who escaped death, effected through Pocahontas, and that he lived many years among the Potomacs. Smith says he was "one of the best interpreters in the land."

This is the last edition published in the author's life time. He died in 1640. The last piece appears in this edition for the first time. The poetical talents and philosophical turn of the author, commended him to King James the First. In 1611 the honor of knighthood was conferred upon him, and he was made Master of the Requests; and in 1621 he received a patent for Nova Scotia. His "Encouragement to Colonies" was published in 1624. The favor of James continued with King Charles I., who changed his rank from Sir William Alexander to that of Viscount Sterling of Scotland. His poetry received the applause of Addison.

The only indication of the printer's name is contained in the following lines:

Nunc antenorei vident penates
Impressos digitis Videlianis·

A translation from the Greek by Guarinus Veronensis and Gregorius Thiphernius. This is the first printed edition of Strabo, with a date, in any language. There are in the Colophon following the date some verses addressed to the reader, which indicate the printer to be Vindeline de Spira, of Venice.

The edition is highly esteemed as a splendid specimen of early printing. See Dibdin's Intro. to the Knowledge of the Classics, 4th ed., Vol. II., p. 43. Brunet speaks of it as an "Edition précieuse."

We place the volume in an American collection, because Strabo believed in the existence of our continent as a habitable part of the globe. He says, on folio 20, verso, "Nisi maris Atlantici magnitudo vetar et per eundem parallelum ex Hispania ad Indiam navigare possemus. . . . Vocamus enim habitebilem quam incolimus et notam habemus. Fas autem est in eadem temperata zona habitabiles duas esse; vel etiam plures. Si sit maxime prope circulum per littora: qui per Atlanticum pelagus describitur." Strabo lived at the time Our Saviour was on earth, and then wrote in regard to the existence of our continent in this work.—Note by H. C. Murphy.

This sermon was probably preached before the company of adventurers to Virginia, preparatory to the expedition which left England the latter end of May, 1609, under Sir Thomas Gates, Sir George Somers, and Christopher Newport, with seven ships and 500 men. The preacher seeks to obviate all the objections to going to Virginia, although he had declined the request that he should go there himself. [See the Dedication and Stith's Virginia, p. 101–2.]

Novvelle edition, Augmentée de plusieurs Relations curieuses.

6 vols. folio, old calf. Paris, Cramoisy, 1666

Thévenot's "Relations de Divers Voyages Curieux," although less extensive than the collections of De Bry, Hulsius, and Purchas, is, nevertheless, one of those valuable series of early voyages and travels which were called forth by the great desire of the public in the seventeenth century, to hear of newly explored countries and to read the adventures of travellers in the then little-known East, as well as in the newly discovered Western World. The great bibliographers have given extended notices of the work, while Camus has filled a quarto volume of four hundred pages with his Memoires on the Collections of De Bry and Thévenot.

Melchizedek Thévenot was a man skilled in the science of his day and in foreign languages. He held positions of high rank under the French government, and was an enthusiastic collector of rare books and manuscripts, and, in his studies, devoted particular attention to early voyages and travels. His tastes and his studies were the incentives that led him to form his collection; indeed, he seems to have been in all respects such a man as Purchas and Hakluyt.

The collection published by Thévenot consists of four parts, and embraces a large number of "Relations" illustrated with maps and plates, each separately paged.

folio, vellum, Franckfurt am Mayn, 1633

[Argonautica Gustaviana; that is, Necessary information on the navigation and commerce, which the late, ... Gustavus Adolphus, King of Sweden, founded some years ago by the establishment of a mercantile company; now communicated to the German people, and especially to those who seek the alliance of Sweden, and who will at the same time avail themselves of the opportunity offered by His Majesty . . . . to take part in this new enterprise, by subscribing his name for a certain sum of money on the lists of the company.]

In brief, the volume contains original documents relating to the attempt of Gustavus Adolphus to plant a Swedish colony in America.

2554 USSELINCX. Discours by Forme van Remonstrantie: vervatende de noodsaeckelickheyd van de Oost-Indische Navigatie, etc. pp. 14. 4*to. red mor. gilt edges*, 1608

A discourse showing the necessity of navigation to the East Indies, by which the Netherlands will secure as great advantage in her navigation round the Cape as through the Straits of Magellan.

4*to. half red mor. Graven-Hage. Aert Meuris*, 1627

Translated into German and published at Stockholm in 1626, and afterwards in the Argonautica Gustaviana. It would seem from the date of this (1627) that it was translated into the German before it was printed in Dutch.

Mr. Muller (Cat. 1872, No. 1142,) calls the work very rare. He only offers an imperfect copy.

2556 USSELINCX. Naerder Bedenckingen, over de zee-vaerdt, Coophandel ende Neeringhe, als mede de versekeringhe vanden Staet deser vereenichde Landen, inde teghenwoordighe Vredehandelinghe met den Coninck van Spangnein ende de Aertshertoghen. 4*to. half mor.* 17 leaves, 1608

Further reflections on the navigation, commerce and trade of the United Netherlands.

2563* USSELINCX MANUSCRIPTS. A package containing various manuscripts copied from the Archives at the Hague relating to William Usselincx, for Mr. Murphy. One of these is styled "Resolutions of the States General relating to W. Usselincx, his memorials and projects from 1614 till 1647, and likewise of the memorials presented by him to that sovereign body. October 15, 1644, and January, 1645."

Another, "Transactions of the Directors of the East India Company in the chamber of seventeen, in the years 1609–1617, relating to the expeditions of Henry Hudson and Lemaire.

A Third. "Remarques op het Octroy van de West Indische Compan. aan H. H. M. door W. Usselincx. Anno 1620." In Dutch.

Fourth. "Postscript and Summary Account annexed to the Dutch translation of the Charter of the Swedish West India Company and Information in relation to the same, by William Usselincx. Published at the Hague in 4to. in 1627."

The last is in Mr. Murphy's handwriting, and is probably a translation by him of Tract No. 41, p. 92, of Asher's Bib. and Hist. Essay on Dutch Books relating to New Netherland.

This is one of the few editions that contains Grijalva's Itinerary of Yucatan, one of the earliest accounts we have of that country. The most circumstantial account of Grijalva's expedition is to be found in the Itinerary of his Chaplain. .... The original [Spanish] is lost, but an indifferent version was published at Venice in 1522. A copy which belonged to Ferdinand Columbus, is still extant in the library of the great church of Seville. The book had become so exceedingly rare, however, that the historiographer, Muñoz, made a transcript of it with his own hand, and from his manuscript that in my possession was taken.—Prescott, Conq. of Mexico, Book II., Ch. I., note.

In the Carter-Brown Library, Providence, is an edition printed at Venice, by Zorzi di Rusconi, 1520, which contains Grijalva's Itinerary.

The volume contains an original account of the first three voyagee of Columbus and the account of Vespucci's third voyage, written by himself and first published in Latin in the year 1504, the only voyage made by him of which there is any account coming from his hands, unless the account of the four voyages in the Cosmographie Introductio, also published in 1507, be considered, as it claims to be his work,—Vasca de Gama's first voyage.—The voyage of Cabral, and Pasqualigi's account of Caspar Cortereal's first voyage are also found in this, the first collection of voyages extant.

It was republished in 1519 and 1521. The latter is said to have some additions.

A copy at the sale of the Bolton-Corney library in 1871 brought £157 ($785).

"The book itself is the translation of Vespuccius' famous letter to Laur. de Medicis, on his third American voyage, undertaken in 1501 for the King of Portugal. It begins beneath the wood-cut of the first page.

"The books bears no date, but it is out of question that it was printed in the period 1506–9, the time when all the separate editions of Vespuccius were published. It is one of the first productions of the famous printer Jan van Doesborgh, at Antwerp, whose publications (principally romances of chivalry with wood-cuts, curious popular books, etc.,) rank among the rarest of the Antwerp printers. Just the kind of his publications that makes it easy to understand why they have disappeared, as it were, under the hands of the reading public."—MULLER, Catalogue of Books on America, Amst., 1871.

Herring, in his edition of the Statutes at Large of Virginia (Vol. II., p. 517–518), says: "It will be seen by the following extract, which is from a MS. of unquestionable authority, that at the last mentioned date (1683) a printer had actually commenced his business in Virginia, but was prohibited by the Governor and Council from printing anything till the King's pleasure should be known, which it may be presumed was very tardily communicated, as the first evidence of printing thereafter in Virginia was on the revised laws contained in the edition of 1733. "February 21, 1682, John Buckner called before the Lord Culpepper and his counsel for printing the laws of 1680, without his Excellency's license, and he and the printer ordered to enter into bond in £100 not to print any thing thereafter, until his Majesty's pleasure should be known. Besides Hudson, no navigator except De Vries published a narrative of his voyages to New Netherland during the Dutch possession. An English translation of this interesting narrative was made by the Hon. Henry C. Murphy, and privately printed by the late James Lenox, of New York, in a quarto volume with an engraved portrait of the author. In his introduction, the translator, in speaking of the author, says:

"His narratives, where he speaks from personal knowledge, are entitled to the highest credit, for not only do they bear internal evidence of truth, but they have been corroborated in many instances by other evidence, and by the records which we have; and being his daily observations, taken down at the time, they have from this circumstance a value which no narrative formed from memory could possess. . . . . His relation of the disgraceful and disastrous Indian war, in which he was an actor and friend of the Indians, is the only authentic one extant, of any completeness, except that of the government, and is, therefore, of great interest and value."

Professor Tyler, in an admirable and extended notice of Ward, thus writes: "'The Simple Cobler of Agawam,' may be described as a prose satire upon what seemed to the author to be the frightful license of new opinions in his time, both in New England and at home, upon the frivolity of women and the long hair of men; and finally upon the raging storm of English politics, in the strife then going forward between sects, parties, parliament and King. It is a tremendous partizan pamphlet, intensely vital even yet, full of fire, wit, whim, eloquence, sarcasm, invective, patriotism, bigotry. One would have to search long among the rubbish of books thrown forth to the public during those hot and teeming days, to find one more authentically representing the stir, the earnestness, the intolerance, the hope, and the wrath of the times than does this book.—*Hist. London, Felix Kyngston, 1620

First edition, reprinted in 1622 and 1623, with additions. Translated into Latin and German and included in Hulsius' "Collection of Voyages," Part XX.

One of the most successful in directing the attention of the people of England to Newfoundland, was Captain Richard Whitbourne. He states that he became an adventurer into foreign countries at fifteen years of age, was captain of a vessel of his own in 1588, and rendered good service at the time of the Spanish invasion. Having been employed more than forty years in making voyages to and from the island, he says, "as for Newfoundland, it is almost so familiarly known to me as my owne countrey." He further states that "his 'Large Discourse' has been presented to King James, and that his Majesty had ordered it to be printed and distributed in every parish throughout England, to shew the benefits of settling a plantation in Newfoundland."

12*mo. calf, with the autograph of Robert Southey.*
London, Gregory Dexter, 1643

This is the earliest printed book of Roger Williams. In the Preface he says, "I drew the materialls in a rude lumpe at sea, as a private helpe to my owne memory, that I might not by my present absence lightly lose what I had so dearly bought in some few yeares hardship and charges among the barbarians; yet being reminded by some, what pitie it were to bury those materialls in my grave at land or sea."

"This singular, and as it has been represented, exceedingly copious and versatile language has been made," says Professor Gammell, "the subject of much curious inquiry among the philologists of our own and of other lands The people who spoke it have long since vanished from the hills and forests of New England; but the language itself has survived them in the pious though humble labors of their benefactors."—Life of Williams.

The earliest edition of this work. The ed. that Lowndes calls the first was printed at Glasgow in 1758. Wilson, according to his own account, returned from America in 1756. (See page 100.)

From the Gentleman's Magazine for the year 1799, vol. 69, p. 167:

"Obituary. At Edinburgh, Mr. Peter Williamson, well known for his adventures through life. He was kidnapped when a boy at Aberdeen and sent to America, for which he afterwards received damages. He passed a considerable time among the Cherokees, and, on his return to Edinburgh, amused the public with a description of their manners and customs, and his adventures among them, assuming the dress of one of their chiefs, imitating their war hoop, (sic) &c. He had the merit of instituting the penny post at Edinburgh, for which, when it was assumed by Government he received a pension."

The interest in this book centres in the historical poem upon Winthrop's obtaining of Charles II. the Charter of Connecticut. After the Restoration, the "Sages of Connecticut" sent Winthrop, their Governor, to England, to present an address, and "to ask the King for charter liberties." Soon after it was announced to Charles, who "was in his Council sat," that

"An Agent from Connecticut doth wait,
With an Address before your Palace Gate."

Winthrop admitted, discharged himself in homespun numbers, redolent rather of truth than poetry, filling some sixty pages, in which he recounts the national, civil, political, and military history of the colony from the earliest time till "great Sassacus and his kingdom fell."

2780 WYTFLIET, CORNELIUS. Descriptionis Ptolemaicæ Avgmentvm, sive Occidentis Notitia. folio, half green mor. top edge gilt. Lovanii: Iohannis Bogardi, 1597

A continuation of "Ptolemy's Geography," by Wytfliet. The first edition was printed in 1597, the maps of which edition are used in the present one. The chief value of the work is in the several maps of America, of which there are eighteen, and two general maps. The map of Estotiland and Labrador, together with the description accompanying, shows that the author had full faith in the voyage of the brothers Zeni, as he has also given an existence to the island of Frisland to which they allude. The map of Norumbega and Virginia is equally curious, as it was made while the sea-coast was quite unknown. Long Island Sound is not shown. The Hudson is called the Rio Grande. An island called Claudia (Block Island) to the eastward, was so named by Verazzano, who discovered the entrance to the Hudson river in 1522, and is the only place on the coast to which he gave a name.

"This book has been the property of some of the Penn Family. It had the Coat of Arms on the back of the Title Page before it was rebound, Jan. 31, 1838. The foregoing note is by Mr. Ingraham, to whose library this volume once belonged. It is highly probable that it was the property of William Penn himself. Yvon, the author, was the head of the Labadists at Wiewert, in Friesland, after the death of their founder. Wm. Penn visited the community there, and conversed with Yvon, Anna Maria Schurman, and others of its number. A detailed account of this visit and conversation is contained in the account of Penn's travels in Holland and Germany, under date of 12 July, 1677."—H. C. M.

Venetia, Fr. Marcolini*, 1558

Among the several claims set forth for the discovery of America prior to Columbus, are those of the brothers Zeni, who, in the year 1380, claim to have visited sundry islands which they call Frisland, Esland (Iceland), Engroveland (Greenland), and Icaria. The account of these voyages first appeared at Venice in 1558, and was incorporated and published in the second volume of the well known collection of Ramusio, "Navagationi et Viaggi," published in 1574, as supplementary, or seventeen years after the death of that reliable geographer.

A little volume of very great rarity, with the original map. Mr. Murphy sought a copy for many years, and told the writer that this was the first copy he had ever met with for sale containing it. Priced by Tross, of Paris, in 1878, 200 francs.

The name Schondia, mentioned in the title, is the general name for the northern regions, in the chapter in which is a notice of Greenland. On the map containing these regions, Greenland and Terra Bacallaos are laid down.

2804 ZIEGLER. Qvae intvs continentvr. Syria, ad Ptolomaici operis rationem, Præterea Strabone, Plinio, & Antonio auctoribus locupletata. Palestina, iisdem auctoribus. . . . . Schondia, tradita ab auctoribus, qui in eius operis prologo memorantur. folio, half vellum. Argentorati, Petrum Opilionem, 1532

The last map in the volume relating to the northern regions, contains Greenland and Terra Bacallaos. In the work is a division relating to the northern regions under the general name of SCHONDIA, in which are separate chapters on Greenland, Iceland, Lapland, etc. In his preface to Schondia (p. 85), the author says: "As I intend to publish a book concerning the countries in the north parts of the world, of which the ancients knew nothing: and to show that those regions have an affluence of such things as pronounce a happy country, it will be necessary for me to show what authorities I can produce with regard to this work."

Zeigler lived in Rome, where, from two Bishops who had lived in Greenland and Iceland, he obtained the facts given in his work.

"Augustin de Zarate," writes Prescott, "a highly respectable authority, was Comptroller of Accounts for Castile. This office he filled for fifteen years; after which he was sent to Peru, to examine into the state of the colonial finances. . . . . Soon after his arrival, he seems to have conceived the idea of making his countrymen at home acquainted with the stirring events passing in the colony, which, morever, afforded some striking passages for the study of the historian. . . . . On his return home, Zarate set about the compilation of his work . . . . and, beginning with the discovery of Peru, he gave an entire view of the conquest and subsequent occupation of the country, bringing the narrative down to the close of Gasca's mission. For the earlier part of his story, he relied upon the accounts of persons who took a leading part in the events. He disposes more summarily of this portion than of that in which he himself was both a spectator and an actor; where his testimony, considering the advantages his position gave him for information, is of the highest value."—Conquest of Peru, Vol. II., p. 471.

This very rare volume relates to the early settlement of the Swedes in what they called New Sweden, now portions of Pennsylvania, New Jersey and Delaware.

It was translated into English by P. Duponceau, and published in the Pennsylvania Historical Collections. Vol. III.

"Nothing is known of this author except that his grandfather accompanied Gov. Printz, as his chaplain, to America, in 1642, and remained here six years as pastor of the Swedish churches, during which time he learned the Indian languages and translated Luther's Catechism into the Lenapi, which was printed in Stockholm in 1696. It is also known that the father of Campanius was in this country, but in what capacity is not known. The author was never in America. His work is made up from verbal accounts of his father, and notes left by his grandfather, to which he has added facts obtained from the manuscripts of Peter Lindström, an engineer." It is a work of high authority.

2 vols. 8vo. calf, London, 1708

This is the first edition, and is in some respects more full than the second edition, while in others it is less so. Both editions should be had, as they are both referred to, but often what is cited from one, will not be found in the other. For instance, there is in this edition much in relation to Pennsylvania, derived by personal communication from William Penn with the author, and omitted in the other. So the second edition continues the history from the time of publishing this till 1741, the date of the publication of that edition, and has much other matter inserted.* The author's name (J. Oldmixon) signed in the dedication of this edition, is dropped in the second.

John Phillippe Abelin, better known under the name of John Louis Gottfriedt, was a contributor to and co-laborer in the volumes of the Great and Small Voyages published by Merian, the son-in-law of Theodore de Bry. He continued his labors by the publication of this volume, which is considered as an abridgment of the Great Voyages. It embraces a large number of the plates previously used in them. The work is divided into three Parts, of which the First serves as an introduction, containing the history, geography, natural history, etc., of the New World, taken from the publications of Oviedo, Acosta, Peter Martyr, De Laet, Herrera, and others. The Second Part contains accounts of thirty-three expeditions, or voyages, to America, from Columbus to those of Spilberg and Schouten. The Third and last Part contains a description of the West Indies and Central America, as well as of certain expeditions such as those of Jacob Le Maire and Peter Heyn; an account of the conquests of the Dutch in Brazil; a description of Greenland, Spitzbergen, and other northern lands.

The map in this volume was copied for me from the original in the British Museum. It is found in the very rare work first published by Hakluyt in 1582, as to which Mr. Biddle's Memoir of Sebastian Cabot, p. 37, may be consulted.

Hakluyt refers to this map in the dedication, where he speaks of having copied from a map of Verrazzo.

The late Mr. Rich intended to reprint the work of Hakluyt, and actually struck off a part of it, which he sent to me, and which contains the remark in relation to Verrazzo. It is bound up herewith.—Note by Mr. Murphy.

2948 INTERIANO, P. Ristretto delle Historie Genovesi. 4to. vellum, Lucca Basdrago, 1551

Every book contemporary with, or printed near the time of Columbus, possesses an interest when reference is made to the great navigator. In this History of Genoa is a brief notice of him, beginning as follows: We give an English version.

"Frarcesco Marchiso and Giovanni Antonio Grimaldo, were sent as envoys to adjust [some difficulties among the people of Genoa occasioned by a pestilence which took place in 1491.] On their return they established the certainty of the glorious discovery of new land at the west of that kingdom made by CHRISTOPHER COLUMBUS, a GENOOSE, whose name posterity will hold in eternal veneration. This man (for I do not think the matter should be overlooked), born of the most obscure parentage, in a town distant twenty miles from our city, on the western shore, called Cogerio, adopted a sailor's life, rose to be a guide, or pilot of vessels, that traverse the ocean, and with the dexterity of unaided genius and experience in taking the sun by the Pole, acquired by him in those navigations, he came to have so much confidence in himself, that he exposed himself to an enterprise which few others had attempted till now," etc., etc.

Beginnende van tlaer 1598 tot 1611, mede vervatende enighe haerder gebueren handelinghe. thick 4to., old embossed calf, rebacked, with clasps. Gedruckt op Schotlant buyten Danswyck By Hermes van Loven voor den Autheur, 1611

This volume forms a second part of Van Meteren's History of the Netherlands. The first part appeared in folio in —— and comes down to the year 1598. The two were printed together without date, it is said in 1612, at Amsterdam. This volume was printed by itself, in 1611.

This edition of Van Meteren contains the first account of the voyage of Henry Hudson, in which he discovered the river which bears his name. The author derived it, probably, from the mate of the "Half Moon," which vessel was detained in England on her return, and where Van Meteren was at the time. The passage relating to Hudson's Voyage will be found on fol. 346.—H. C. M.

This edition, the last that was published by the author with his final additions is exceedingly scarce. Mr. Murphy, in a note on a fly-leaf, says: "I was unable to get this book while I was in Holland, and this copy was sent me ten years after I had left an order while I was there."

"This work was written in America. (See the Dedication). The author is named as one of the patentees in the second charter to the Virginia Company, Dated May 23, 1609. He was the Company's treasurer for Virginia in 1623, at which time he probably wrote this Translation. (See Stith's Virginia, p. 303.) We find him petitioning King Charles I. for a restoration of the Charter of the Company in 1642. (Burk's Virginia II., p. 70.) There are evidences of his being in America in several parts of this volume. (See p. 179 & 263.) This is the second edition published under the author's supervision, and is the most valuable, because it is the first which contained the commentaries. (See address to the reader.)

folio, half mor. top edge gilt, uncut, New York. 1860

One hundred and fifty copies privately printed for James Lenox. A presentation copy.

The Lenox library possesses one of the two original copies known of this letter. The other is in the Trivulzio Library, Milan.

The work is accompanied by an English translation of a letter to the Chapter of Seville, by Dr. Chanca, physician to the fleet of Columbus, in his second and third voyages, and a bibliographical notice of the several editions of the Letter of Columbus describing his first voyage, with brief notices of his other voyages.

"In 1494, while Sillacio was employed at the University of Pavia, Guglielmo Cana, a noble personage, wrote to him from Spain, describing the discoveries recently made by Columbus. These letters he immediately translated into Latin, inserting such other accounts as were then universally current. And, as he himself declares, without changing or adding anything, he printed the relation which is now produced, after being lost sight of for nearly four centuries."

"The voyage to which this account refers, is the second, that on which Columbus sailed from Cadiz, on the 25th September, 1493. The first island he discovered was called Dominica, from the day on which it was seen. The second was named Maria-Galante, or Volante, after the Admiral's vessel. He then visited in succession Guadaloupe, Santa Cruz, the Island of St. John the Baptist, now Porto Rico, and last of all, Hispaniola, in which he had the previous year founded the fort of the Nativity."

Hon. Henry C. Murphy, LL.D.

of Brooklyn, Long Island,

and

His Library.

The Sale of this great Library will commence Monday, March 3, at Clinton Hall, Astor Place, New York. GEO. A. LEAVITT & CO., Auctioneers. Catalogue, 434 pages, now ready; price, 50 cts., and postage, 14 cts.

THE LATE

HENRY C. MURPHY, LL.D.,

AND

HIS LIBRARY.

SOME of the most important private libraries ever collected in America have come under the auctioneer's hammer, during the past few years, at Clinton Hall, New York City.

Among these may be named the splendid library of Mr. William Menzies, of New York; the "American Library" of the late Mr. George Brinley, of Hartford, Conn., of which the fourth and concluding part is now in preparation; the miscellaneous and international law collection of the late William Beach Lawrence, Governor of Rhode Island; the carefully chosen library, so rich in the drama, of Mr. J. H. V. Arnold; the late Simeon Henry Remsen's library; that of Caleb Lyon of Lyonsdale, Governor of Idáho; the library of the late Caleb Fiske Harris, of Providence, Rhode Island, of which the "Americana" portion is yet to be sold; the extraordinary and extensive library of the late Dr. David King, of Newport, and there is still another part unsold; that of the Hon. William C. Prescott, of Salem, Masssachusetts; and the library of the late Joseph J. Cooke, of Providence, of which the third and "Americana" part will be sold on the third of December next, and following days.

All these and numerous others, containing bibliomaniacal treasures of the highest value and greatest rarity, have been distributed among the bibliophiles of this country at a comparatively recent period.

And now another is under the ægis of Geo. A. Leavitt & Co., who will dispose of it about the first of March, 1884.

It is the grand collection of the late Hon. Henry C. Murphy, LL.D., of Brooklyn, N. Y., which overtops all others yet sold, in both rarity and value, in the specialties that make it so remarkable, if not unique. The formation of this library was the labor of a long life, and it comprises the rarest books in the department generally known as AMERICANA that have ever been offered for sale in the United States, or even in Europe.

* * *

By birth, instinct, environment and culture, Mr. Murphy was naturally the collector of a library such as he gathered together, and of which his life-long friend, the eminent author and bibliographer, the Hon. John Russell Bartlett, ex-Secretary of State of Rhode Island, is now compiling the catalogue.

Mr. Henry C. Murphy was born in Brooklyn, Long Island, July 5, 1810 and died there December 1, 1882. His paternal grandfather, a physician, settled in the State of New Jersey, in Monmouth County, nearly one hundred and twenty years ago. He was a member of the Colonial Council, the representative in the Assembly of the province, and a soldier of the American Revolution. The son of this patriot, Mr. Murphy's father, settled in Brooklyn, of which city he was a Justice of the Peace, a Judge of the Municipal Court, and a School Commissioner. But his memory is most endeared to the citizens of Brooklyn by the fact of his having been one of the promoters of their first public school in 1816.

His eldest son, the late Henry C. Murphy, was educated at the High School of New York, from which he went to Columbia College, where he graduated with honors when he was twenty years old.

In the words of another:—"Of a Brooklyn ancestry older than the city of Brooklyn; of an American ancestry antedating the Revolution; receiving from his father the blood of the land distinguished for the brilliancy of her children and the desolation of her liberties, and from his mother the blood of the Dutch burghers who brought to the New World the noblest traditions of the Old, Henry C. Murphy began his career equipped as few have the good fortune to be, to do valiant service in the battle of life. With a sound collegiate education; with traditions of the best kind to hold him in the paths of honor; and with a prospect opened by the hands of friends to stir his ambition, he would have been an unworthy son had he not shown an early disposition to make the best use of the talents and advantages committed to his keeping."

Mr. Henry C. Murphy studied law with the Hon. Peter W. Radcliffe, and after three years' earnest work was admitted to the bar in 1833. The year following he was made Assistant Corporation Counsel of Brooklyn. A little later he became City Attorney, and still later Counsel to the Corporation of the newly evolved "city" of Brooklyn. Fifty years ago, and young as he was then, he had become a power in State politics. An early friend and associate of his in Kings County, referring to this phase of his early life, says:—"Murphy was educated, and he was exactly the man wanted. Hence from the beginning he was greatly deferred to, and was a prominent figure, being recognized as a scholar in politics." It was this which marked him out as a rising man to the leading Brooklyn lawyer of that time, Counsellor John A. Lott, with whom he went into partnership, the name of their law firm being "Lott, Murphy & Vanderbilt."

When thirty-two years old he was elected Mayor of the City of Brooklyn on the Democratic ticket. In 1843 Mr. Murphy's political career was enlarged from his "pent-up" place of nativity to Washington, when he was chosen a Member of the Twenty-eighth Congress of the United States. He was, however, defeated for a second Congressional term and his labors temporarily ended in the House of Representatives on March 4, 1845. But he was re-elected in 1846 to Congress "by the largest vote ever previously polled in his district."

In 1852 Mr. Murphy nearly became the Democratic candidate for the Presidency of the United States, when the Virginia delegation, at the Baltimore Convention, considered him and Franklin Pierce as the best men available for the highest office in the gift of the American people.

President Buchanan, as a reward for his zealous services to his party and as a recognition of his abilities, appointed him United States Minister to Holland. He remained at the Hague until the coming into office of President Lincoln, who recalled him.

Mr. Murphy was elected in 1861, and five times successively afterward, to the New York State Senate. He was a State Senator for twelve consecutive years. It was under his auspices, as President of the East River Bridge Company, that the greatest triumph of modern engineering genius, the New York and Brooklyn Bridge, was begun and completed. He was also the President of the Brooklyn, Flatbush and Coney Island Railroad, until his death in 1882.

* * *

Mr. Murphy's highest claim to recognition is not as a statesman, but as a littérateur and bibliophile. He was a journalist and author of repute. When in his twenty-second year, he was the principal editorial writer of the "Brooklyn Advocate and Nassau Gazette." For many years he was one of the leading contributors to the "North American Review," as well as the "Democratic Review." He was the founder and proprietor of the "Brooklyn Daily Eagle and Kings County Democrat" in October, 1841, and was associated in its editorship with Richard Adams Locke, author of the "Moon Hoax." While United States Minister at the Hague, he wrote a series of some thirty-five letters to that newspaper, which were copied all over in the exchanges. His contributions to the "Historical Magazine" were continuous and attracted great attention.

He was no selfish lover of literature for his own sake. It seemed to be his greatest desire to benefit others as well as himself. Thus, while a young man, he was the principal founder of the "Young Men's Literary Association of Brooklyn," and when it changed its name to the "Hamilton Literary Association of Brooklyn" he was elected its first president. In 1839 Mr. Murphy was a trustee and one of the organizers of the "Brooklyn City Library," and a year later was also a trustee of the "Brooklyn Apprentices' Library," upon its reorganization. In 1863 he was one of the initial founders of the "Long Island Historical Society."

Among his personal literary labors should be named his edition and translation of De Vries' "Voyage from Holland to America, 1632–1644;" "Broad Advice to the New Netherlands," which he attributed to Cornelius Melyn; his "First Minister of the Dutch Reformed Church in the United States," dated at the Hague, April 1, 1858; his seventy-two-page work, published 1859, entitled "Henry Hudson in Holland"; his edition for the Long Island Historical Society of Dankers and Sluyter's "Journal of a Voyage to New York and a Tour in Several of the American Colonies in 1679–80"; and his memoir of the bibliophile Herman Ernst Ludewig for the New England Memorial Biographies.

Mr. Murphy's two most important works were "The Anthology of the New Netherlands," of which only 208 pages were printed for the Bradford Club, and his monograph entitled "The Voyage of Verrazano," which the late Joel Munsell, of Albany, printed for him.

The best life of Mr. Murphy yet written is from the pen of his friend, the well-known author, Dr. Henry R. Stiles. It consists of a paper read before the New York Genealogical and Biographical Society and which takes some twenty-four pages of the January (1883) number of the valuable quarterly "Record" of that society. The steel portrait which accompanies the memoir, is the same as that which appears on the title of these few pages, but which is not equal in force and character to the very spirited bust executed for the family within the past twelve months by the celebrated New York sculptor D. B. Sheahan.

Dr. Stiles speaks as follows respecting the library of Mr. Murphy, after referring to a printed catalogue of a portion of it made by its owner in 1863:

"Between its publication in 1853, and 1860, in which year Mr. Murphy's collection was included in Dr. Wynne's 'Private Libraries of America,' it had increased to 'over five thousand volumes, fully three-quarters of which relate to the peculiar topic of his researches.' Dr. Wynne also says that 'the library may be divided into four classes—one, relating to early American history; one to local American history; one to later American history; and the last of a miscellaneous character, each of which embraces about a quarter of the whole. It is exceptionally rich in volumes remarkable for their rarity. He procured, for example, forty of the very scarce 'Jesuit Relations de ce qui s'est [passé] dans la Nouvelle France.' Then there are the early New England tracts by Eliot, Shepard, Winslow [Cotton], and Whitfield, published in 1643 and 1659, with all of their quaint titles, such as 'First Fruits,' 'The Day Breaking of the Gospel, if not the Sun Rising with the Indians of New England,' etc. Of these the rarest, since there is but one other copy, is 'Some Helps for the Indians in the New Haven Colony,' by Abraham Pierson, a Puritan clergyman, afterward one of the founders of Newark, New Jersey. Molina's 'Vocabulario en Lengua Mexicana,' published at Mexico, in 1571, and a copy of that rarest of all American books, the first edition of Colden's 'History of the Five Nations,' published in New York in 1727; Penhallow's Indian Wars;' 'Doolittle's Narrative Indian Wars on the Western Frontier of Massachusetts,' published in 1750; [Mason's] 'History of the Pequot War.' [John Smith's 'Historie of Virginia,' 1624; Van der Donck's 'Description of New Netherland, 1655.] The whole of the collection relative to Indian history and philology is rare and rarely to be met with either in American or European collections. His copy of the 'Vocabulary of Indian Language,' by Roger Williams, once belonged to the poet Southey, and has his autograph. Relative to early colonization there are the three folio volumes of 'Ramusio,' with maps, the first published in Venice, in 1559, the second in 1563, and the third in 1565; 'Eden's Decades of Peter Martyr,' 1555; 'Eden's Travels,' completed by Willes, 1577; De Bry's 'Grands et Petits Voyages,' of the first edition, with 'Hakluyt' of the editions of 1589 and 1599. Also to be found in this collection is the 'Cosmographia Introductio insuper quattuor Americi Vespucci Navigationes, St. Dié, 1507.' One cannot, however, enumerate the many rare and valuable volumes in his library."

* * *

It is well to state further and more particularly that in general geography, voyages and travels, which were Mr. Murphy's specialties, the library is unusually large, and comprises the collections of DeBry, Ramusio, Hakluyt, Purchas, Grynæus, Thèvenot, Commelin, and Abelyn.

Of the early editions of Ptolemy's "Cosmographia," the collection is not surpassed in the United States. It comprises more than twenty editions of the famous geographer, printed between the years 1462 and 1600. Besides these are the works of other noted geographers, as Strabo, Pomponius Mela, Abulfeda Edrisi, Apian, Ortelius, Mercator, and Munster. The more recent geographers are also represented.

New France and Canada are conspicuous. Among works on this widely extended region are the "Jesuit Relations," in forty-two volumes, probably the most complete set of these valuable books ever offered for sale either in Europe or America. In the same department will be found the writings of Sagard, Lescarbot, Champlain, LeClercq, Charlevoix, Hennepin, and LaHontan.

New Netherland, embracing portions of New York and New Jersey, is probably the most complete of any department. Mr. Murphy was learned in the Dutch language and literature, and no book or pamphlet that related directly or indirectly to the Dutch and Swedish settlements in North America is known that is not to be found in the collection.

In the early tracts on New England, Pennsylvania, Maryland, Virginia, Florida, and Louisiana, the collection is well represented.

Books on the Indian Languages are numerous, and include Dictionaries, Grammars, Vocabularies, unpublished manuscripts, and both editions of Eliot's "Indian Bible and New Testament."

Among the early Spanish and Dutch writers are the "Letters of Cortes" and the works of Peter Martyr, Las Casas, Acosta, Benzoni, Cieça, Gomara, Herrera, Linschoten, DeLaet, Oviedo, Thevet, Zarate, Van der Donck, De Vries and Usselincx.

Last, but not least of the rarities in the collection, are copies of the "Columbus Letter" of 1493; "Cosmographiæ Introductio St. Die," 1507; "Pæsi Novamente," Milan, 1508: D'Ailly's "Imago Mundi," Paris, 1490; and Sir Humphrey Gilbert's "Discovery for a New Passage to Cathay, London, 1576."

Among the miscellaneous books are the Archæologia, or Miscellaneous Tract, relating to Antiquity, published by the Antiquarian Society of London, forty-two vols.; The British Poets, Riverside Edition, 135 vols., crown octavo, large paper; Botta and Flandin's Monumens de Ninêve, printed at the National Printing Office, Paris, five vols., atlas folio; Layard's Nineveh, two vols., atlas folio; Chinese Repository, complete, twenty vols., octavo; Harleian Miscellany, edited by T. Park, ten vols., quarto.

The last of the gems in the collection to which attention should be called are the original autograph letters of the "Signers of the Declaration of Independence," all remarkably fine specimens.

Such is the library which Mr. Murphy, one of the most ardent bibliophiles of this country and century, collected together.

And in such a collection as this, that early of the early bibliomaniacs, the younger Pliny, found an unwearying source of pleasure and relief, for he wrote: "I am quite transported and comforted in the midst of my books; they give a zest to the happiest and assuage the anguish of the bitterest moments of existence! Therefore, whether distracted by the cares or the losses of my family or my friends, I fly to my library as the only refuge in distress; here I learn to bear adversity with fortitude."

It appears from this account that about 300 persons came from Alsace and the Palatinate in 1717 to Pennsylvania, and eight years afterwards settled in Spotsylvania. Subsequently they obtained a pastor, the author of this account, who went back in 1737 to Germany to obtain an assistant minister and also pecuniary assistance, in both of which objects he was successful. He complains that his community were compelled by law to pay towards the support of the English minister there.
